Bates Asks More Policemen as Crime Rises In City

CHIEF REPORTS BUSY YEAR FOR CITY OFFICERS

Tells Mayor There's No Sign of Let-up in Activities of Department.

Chief Meade K. Bates today called for a strengthened police squad because, he said, crime is up and will stay up for some time.

He recommended in his annual report to Mayor Roy W. Vaughn that men be added to the traffic squad and detective bureau.

He recommended also that additional motorcycle equipment be purchased for the traffic squad, pointing out that traffic control is one of the city's major problems.

42 on Staff.

The department now has 40 officers and two clerks. Nine men are assigned to traffic and three to the detective bureau.

The report shows that department personnel increased from 34 in 1945 to 42 at present. Salaries climbed from $69,730 in 1945 to $98,189 last year.

Bates said in his report that "all types of crimes, both major and petty, have increased," and that "all activities of the department, both criminal and traffic, have greatly increased."

* * *

Arrests Increase.

In 1946 the department made 2,394 arrests as compared with 1,722 in 1945. The 1946 total tops every year since 1941. Traffic arrests last year were more than one-third higher than in 1945.

Another index of increased police activity is the sharp jump in the number of complaints filed with the department and investigated by it. They totaled 5,200 last year, 1,000 to 2,000 higher than in any year since 1941.

"It is my opinion," the chief said, "that it will stay at this high level for some time to come, due to the influx of migrant workers into this community from other parts of the country.

"It is also my opinion that traffic will be one of the major problems facing law enforcement officers during the next few years," he stated.

He said he is recommending that the traffic department be increased both in personnel and equipment in an effort to carry out an educational and enforcement program.

Plans Safety Program.

The program would be aimed at "reducing the number of traffic deaths and the great property loss to the motoring public, due to the increased traffic accidents." Bates said.

POTATO LOSS HIGH FOR U. S.

WASHINGTON —(INS)—Almost half of the 45-million bushel surplus potato crop grown last year may have to be destroyed, it was disclosed today by the Department of Agriculture.

Agriculture Secretary Anderson declared that if congress does not appropriate money to help feed starving peoples, the department cannot take a humanitarian point of view on the needs of foreign nations.

Anderson, appearing before the senate agriculture committee, bluntly declared:

"We must get dollars for what we sell."

He testified that all foreign nations receiving American food were paying for it in American dollars.

Even as he testified, the department announced that of the all-time Jan. 1 high of 150 million bushels of potatoes on hand, 45 millions are estimated to be surplus.

Disposal of this surplus to divert it from regular trade channels is part of the department's price support program.

It was explained that about 25 million bushels of the surplus can be diverted to livestock feed, the school lunch program, export trade and manufacturers of non-food products,

The remaining 20 million, however, are slated for destruction before spring farm work starts.

Halt In Liquor Rationing Hinted

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A hint that liquor rationing in Ohio may end sometime soon was given today by Liquor Director Stanley B. Cofall.

"We are studying the market very carefully," he said, "and we will take steps toward total decontrol as soon as it is practicable. The time has not yet come."

Damaged Roads Bring Order to Slash Loads

County commissioners today slashed by 50 per cent the allowable load limits on county roads. It's an annual order to minimize road damage during the period of alternate freezing and thawing.

From 1 p. m. today until further notice, loads must not exceed 6,750 pounds per axle on vehicles equipped with pneumatic tires.

These limits coincide with those of the state highway department, also effective today.

County Engineer Walter E. Rusk recommended the load reduction this year three weeks earlier than usual. He reported numerous roads beginning to be damaged by heavy trucks.

MONEY MUDDLE GRIPS GEORGIA

Payrolls Coming Due as Both Governors Try to Rule Without Funds.

ATLANTA, Ga. —(UP)— Georgia's financial picture became as confused today as its dual governor regime. Both claimants to the governorship—Herman Talmadge and Melvyn E. Thompson — found new burdens hampering state government operations.

Talmadge, in executive offices on the first floor of the state capitol, and Thompson, in second floor chambers sought to operate without funds. Several payrolls were reported due.

On the heels of a state official's decision tying up revenue and highway department funds, Thompson learned that almost $100,000 credited to the executive department in an Atlanta bank would remain intact until courts determine the legal governor.

Former Gov. Ellis Arnall who relinquished the executive post to Thompson had felt that the bank would recognize Thompson's signature.

The bank did for a $50 check for the purchase of stamps bringing jubilation from Thompson.

* * *

All a Mistake.

Later, however, Erle Cocke, the bank president, said that acceptance of the check was a mistake, that the check was cashed "through error without knowledge or approval of any officer of the bank."

Talmadge is understood to have sought means of acquiring the funds which are used specifically for custodial payrolls and incidental expenses in the executive department.

Cocke revealed that the bank would seek independent court action to determine the true gubernatorial claimant to the funds. The action, to be filed in Fulton superior court, means that a decision might be forth-coming before a verdict is rendered in a similar action filed by State Attorney General Eugene Cook.

Bids for Power Opened at Noon

Bids for a five-year contract to supply Mansfield with electric power were opened at noon today in Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow's office.

Only bid on file this morning was that of the Ohio Public Service company which currently has a 10-year contract with the city.

The contract will be for power used principally to operate city water pumps. A contract for street lighting was negotiated last year.

Lamb, Riskin -- Originators of Portal Suits -- Linked to Reds

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) of the house committee on Un-American activities declared yesterday the man who got the idea for portal pay suits and the lawyer who brought the one sustained by the supreme court "both have long records of Communist affiliation."

Thomas said in a house speech that Ben Riskin, former director for the Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, is credited in the union's official publication with "concocting" the idea for the claims.

Thomas identified the attorney who brought the original action in the Mount Clemens Pottery company case at Edward Lamb of Toledo. This was the action upheld by the supreme court, with the result that other union claims totaling more than $4,000,000,000 have been filed.

Expanding his remarks for the record of congressional proceedings, Thomas said the April-May issue of the magazine "The New Order" lists Riskin as an associate editor. The magazine, he said, is called the official publication of the International Workers order, which he called "one of the outstanding Communist fronts in the United States."

"Mr. Lamb, like Mr. Riskin," Thomas said, "has followed the Communist party line and has associated himself with numerous fronts which have been set up during the past ten years."

He said Lamb signed a statement to the president "defending the Communist party." He said Lamb was a member of the National Committee and of the national legal advisory board of the International Labor Defense, an organization Thomas said "serves as the legal arm of the Communist party."

Thomas said Lamb was a member, too, of the executive committee of the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties, which he called "a Communist front organization of foreign born."

May Pleads Not Guilty; Trial Begins March 19

FIRST WAVE ENLISTS IN NAVY V-10—Mrs. Gladys R. Everett is shown as the first Mansfield WAVE to enlist in the Navy V-10 reserve (inactive). The program is for women between 20 and 64 years, who served actively during World War II, and were honorably discharged. Mrs. Everett served during the war as a storekeeper, first class, at naval stations in Bloomington, Indiana and Cleveland, Ohio. She is now employed by the Veterans Administration, Mansfield offices. WASHINGTON — (AP) — Andrew J. May, former chairman of the house military committee, and the Garsson brothers pleaded innocent today to charges of conspiring to defraud the government.

Chief Justice Bolitha Laws, who received their plea in U. S. district court, fixed March 19 for trial.

Each of the defendants was released in $2,000 bond.

Appearing with the former Kentucky congressmen were Henry and Murray Garsson, and Joseph Freeman.

The Garssons were organizers of a wartime munitions combine which received more than $78,000,000 in war contracts. Freeman was their Washington representative.

An indictment returned by a grand jury yesterday charges that May agreed to receive $53,634.07 and "other sums" from them and to use his influence to get them profitable contracts.

The 71-year-old former congressman appeared tense but gave no show of emotion as he stood before Justice Laws to answer the charges.

* * *

Speaks Firmly.

"I plead not guilty," he said in a strong voice.

Similar pleas then were entered by the two Garssons and Freeman.

The whole court arraignment took less than 15 minutes.

May had traveled most of the night to get here and the Garsson brothers had rushed to Washington from Illinois.

May told an Associated Press reporter who accompanied him from Charlottesvilla, Va.:

"I am not guilty of any wrong doing either legally or morally.

"Guilty men do not run toward their accusers but from them.

"I have returned to Washington voluntarily and less than 24 hours after the indictment was returned, I will request an early trial and I am confident that an impartial jury will clear me.

"I welcome this opportunity to state my case to a fair jury. Until I have my day in court to vindicate myself I ask the public to keep an open mind."

If convicted, the four could be fined up to $10,000 each and imprisoned up to two years.

Murray Garsson issued a written statement on behalf of himself and his brother saying:

"We have done no wrong unless it was wrong to do a superhuman job of production of shells, bombs, fuses and other war materials for the prosecution of the war."

He said they "ask the American people to withhold judgment with respect to the charges against us," adding: "we welcome the opportunity of having the entire story, not half truths, presented before a fair and impartial tribunal."

The grand jury charged the Garssons and Freeman conspired to buy May's influence with the army officers and war department civilian employes to further the interests of their corporations.

It said they used money to obtain May's pressure on the war department to give commission, promotions and furloughs to their relatives.

GIRL RECEIVES DEATH THREAT

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— Sultry Toni Smith, who now lives in the Hollywood apartment once shared by murdered Elizabeth Short, revealed to police today that an unknown man had threatened her life.

The brunette beauty, her lips trembling with fear, said she answered the telephone in apartment 501 last night to hear a strange man's gruff voice say.

"Well, Toni, you are next."

"I honestly have no idea who he might have been," she said. "I don't know why he should have threatened me."

Miss Smith once was a suspect in the grisly "Black Dahlia" slaying herself, but was released when police determined she did not know the 22-year-old victim. She moved into apartment 501 two weeks after Miss Short moved out.

Cold Flees, Gas Flows, Work Rolls

The cold wave beat a hurried retreat today, bringing almost spring-like weather back to Mansfield.

As the sun played hide-and-seek among clouds pushed across the sky by southern breezes, the puzzled weatherman again admitted Ohio was in for abnormally high temperatures and a cold wave was nowhere in sight.

The Ohio Fuel Gas company announced resumption of normal service to industrial consumers. Mansfield plants affected by the gas shortage returned to full production.

The weatherman—who's probably beginning to peek furtively at the Farmer's almanac—predicted cloudy and mild weather tonight, with occasional rain tomorrow.

The extended forecast—with no guarantees attached—was for rain Sunday, with possible snow flurries Monday; warmer Tuesday and Wednesday, with temperatures averaging five or six degrees above normal for the period.

WORLD BANK HEAD DIES SUDDENLY

WASHINGTON — (UP) — President Truman led Washington officialdom today in mourning the unexpected death of Harold D. Smith, acting head of the World Bank and former director of the budget.

Smith, 48, suffered a heart attack last night at his farm in nearby Culpepper, Va. He died before medical aid could be summoned.

Smith is survived by his widow, three daughters and a son.

OLD 'RAZORBACK' SELLS CROP FOR COOL MILLION

NEW ORLEANS— (AP) —He described himself as a plain old 'razor back' who went as far as the fourth reader, but as he relaxed in a chair in his hotel room he displayed a deposit slip for almost a million dollars.

The $985,821.23 C. R. McKennon, Arkansas cotton planter explained, was for the sale of his 1946 cotton crop of 6,319 bales, just consummated on a spot basis at his home at Dumas, Arkansas.

"I sold it because I wanted to get a little sleep," the silver haired planter remarked. "I figured a little peace of mind was worth more than any profit I might make by holding on to it."

"Don't get the idea that the sale was all profit," he said. As a matter of fact twarn't none of it profit." With a conspiratorial air he leaned over and whispered, "and if you want to get right down to cases, I took a tol'able beating. Yes, siree."

The blue-eyed planter said he acquired his land "by sellin' it for jes' a little mor'n I paid for it and then gettin' some more."

Here for a brief vacation, he went out to the race track and when his horse romped home in the seventh race, he said, "I picked up some bettin' fodder for tomorrow."

POLICY CHANGE 'LIBERALIZES' RENT CEILINGS

OPA Regional Offices Receive Order to Make Adjustments in 'Hardship' Cases.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Maj. Gen. Philip Fleming, director of the office of temporary controls, said today he has instructed regional OPA offices to "liberalize" rents in "hardship cases."

Fleming made the statement to reporters after discussing rent control with President Truman. The president told his news conference yesterday that he favored continuation of nation-wide rent controls and that responsibility for any changes now rested with congress.

Fleming said he and the president did not come to any decision in their talk but covered the ground very thoroughly.

He said his instructions to liberalize rents in what he called "hardship cases" were given earlier this week at a conference here of regional directors.

That would allow an increase in rents in cases where the present ceilings impose a hardship on the landlord.

Where there is any doubt about rents, Fleming explained, the regional directors are under instructions to resolve that doubt in favor of the landlords.

Local costs, he explained, will be the yardstick in determining whether rents are too low.

Meanwhile it appeared that President Truman has left to congress the job of deciding what changes, if any, should be made in present rent control laws.

CIO-STEEL PAY PARLEY BEGINS

PITTSBURGH — (UP) — The CIO opened negotiations today with U. S. Steel corporation for a new wage agreement which was expected to set the pattern for the second post-war round of pay boosts in the industry.

The conference convened amidst rumors that secret preliminary talks between the United Steelworkers and "Big Steel" executives had cleared the way for early settlement of the union's 15-point program for 1947.

Adding to the optimism was absence of the main factors which led directly to the steel workers' long walkout last year.

CIO and USE President Philip Murray has confined his wage demand to a "substantial" amount. Last year he demanded a $2-a day and said the proposal was "not subject to dickering or compromise."

U. S. Steel's flat rejection was based on the then existing OPA-wage stabilization program by which the government banned wage increases resulting in price boosts.

With restraints lifted, the steel industry has been adjusting its price structure for the past 60 days.

Iron Age magazine, "Bible" of the steel industry, in predicting settlement of the U. S. Steel-CIO negotiations before the existing contracts expire Feb. 15, reported that the wage agreement might be in the neighborhood of a 10-cent an hour increase.

OPPOSE TWIN BEDS

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— Married veteran students and some wives at San Francisco State college formed a grinning picket parade, protesting the twin beds with which their apartments were equipped by the college. "Double or nothing," they proclaimed.

Decrease Goes Into Effect In City Saturday

Decline, Which Follows Market Trend In Cleveland, Expected to Save Area Consumers $500 Daily.

Milk will slide back to 18 cents a quart tomorrow when a two-cent drop, brought about by increased production, becomes effective at Mansfield dairies.

Dairymen estimated that the price drop would slash $500 per day from the food bills of between 24,000 and 25,000 milk consumers in the city area.

The decrease was a result of the action taken last night at a meeting of producers and distributors in this area, Dale M. Dohner, manager of the North Central Ohio Co-Operative Dairy Sales association, said today.

"Dairies have a heavier supply of milk now than they've had for several years at this time of year," Dohner added. "The milk drop has in reality followed the drop in the price of butter which now retails at around 65 cents per pound."

Announcement of the price decline here followed a two-cent drop in Cleveland today. Dohner said Mansfield prices have been greatly affected lately by the Cleveland market which is broadening out into the Mansfield area to include more producers.

* * *

Predicts Butter Drop.

The butter price, Dohner said, is expected to remain "about the same" until spring when there may be a "considerable drop if the supply is adequate for the demand."

Ruhland Isaly, manager of the Isaly Dairy company, also predicted that cheese prices would drop along with milk. Ice cream, he said, would remain at a steady level because of the cost of ingredients which go into the manufacture of the commodity.

"The dairy business was the first industry to be decontrolled and prices have had more chance to seek their true level," Isaly added.

* * *

Egg Market Varies.

While the consumer was given encouragement on dairy products, egg prices continue to vary even though Dohner said there is a big surplus on the market now. Eggs were selling from 45 to 61 cents a dozen in the city's groceries today.

"I talked to one Mansfield grocer last week who had 200 dozen of eggs on hand and didn't know what to do with them," Dohner said. "He had 50 cents a dozen invested and was trying to sell them at 49 cents."

U. S. ATTACKS PORTAL CLAIMS

Opponents of Pay Decision Swing Into Action In Courts, Congress.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A double-barreled government attack on the portal pay problem shaped today in congress and the courts.

The justice department entered the picture with a plea that retroactive claims for pay involving "trifles" of employes' time should be dismissed.

And on Capitol Hill Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the senate judiciary committee said his group was ready for fast action on suggested legislative remedies. Another senator told reporters privately the GOP senate policy committee had stamped the issue "urgent."

The justice department stand came in a brief filed with Federal Judge Frank A. Picard. His ruling in a Detroit court that portal pay claims by workers of the Mt. Clemens (Mich.) Pottery company were valid was upheld by the Supreme Court and a wave of suits against other employers followed. Sums involved now top $4,000,000,000.

The justice department contended:

"Plainly an employer is not entitled to deduct trifling personal pursuit periods in computing the work week and by the same token the employe should not be entitled to the addition of trifling periods of preliminary activity."

* * *

'De Minimis' Doctrine.

When employers are liberal in letting employes take short breaks in their working day for "personal pursuits and needs," the department argued, "there should be comparable liberality in applying the de minimis doctrine to walking and make-ready activities."

"De Minimis" is the doctrine that the law does not concern itself with trifles. "Walking" and "make-ready" refer to time spent on the employer's property getting to and from the work site, sharpening tools, changing clothes and otherwise getting ready for production.

The Supreme Court upheld Judge Picard's finding that the workers were entitled to pay under the wage-hour act for time "necessarily" controlled by the employer. The high court sent the case back to him to determine how much the Mt. Clemens workers have coming.

Chairman Donnell (R-Mo.) of the subcommittee scheduled another session tomorrow to consider bills by Wiley and Senators Capehart (R-Wis.) and O'Daniel (D-Tex.) to outlaw the portal pay suits. O'Daniel was invited to outline his proposal then.

SUGAR RATION BOOSTON WAY

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Ray Semans, regional sugar executive of the Office of Price Administration, said today the estimated world sugar production was expected to allow a 40 percent ration boost to domestic consumers and 27 percent to industrial users this year.

Housewives were granted 25 pounds last year for each member of their family and Semans said it was hoped the allotment would be increased to 35 pounds.

Persons who are agitating for a removal of sugar rationing are "misled" because without controls industrial users could outbid domestic consumers, Semans declared.

REDS SEIZE DAM

NANKING —(AP)— Chinese government troops have taken over control of hydroelectric dams inside China on the Yalu river, boundary between Manchuria and Russian-occupied northern Korea, under agreement with the Soviets, Chinese dispatches said today.

SCOUTS TO CHASE FOXES IN HUNT SOUTH OF CITY

A fox hunt tomorrow will add to the experiences and thrills gained through scouting as Mansfield Boy Scouts (12 years of age and over) take to the fields in quest of the speedy animal.

They'll be under the supervision of Floyd Dent, scout executive; Harold Snyder, C. I. Kimmel, Carl Schafer, and others who will take the Scouts with them on the hunt.

The young hunters are scheduled to meet in Central park at 9 a. m., where cars will be available for the trip to the hunting grounds in Richland county south of Mansfield.

The Scouts were urged to dress for the weather, and be equipped with good footwear—for it may be muddy. Guns won't be permitted. Lunches or a little money to buy them should be taken along, Dent said.

Fox hunts are staged frequently in the Mansfield area, but this is the first one on which Boy Scouts will be taken as "guests" of the hunters.

MAN, WIFE STRICKEN WITHIN 15 MINUTES

MT. GILEAD—Within a period of 15 minutes, death today took the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Culver, of Sparta, Morrow county.

The bodies of the aged couple were found by their son, Murel, who said his parents had died of heart attacks. His mother, Mrs. Lula Rush Culver, 72, died at 3:45 a. m., and his father was stricken at 4 a. m., he said.

Mr. Culver was born Feb. 19, 1877, and Mrs. Culver was born on Sept. 23, 1884. The couple operated a general store in Sparta.

Funeral arrangements, in charge of the Jacobs funeral home at Marengo, are incomplete.

150,000 Tenants Too Rich

Landlord Uncle Sam Invites Families to Vacate Low-Rent Homes.

(By Associated Press)

AT LEAST 150,000 people around the country have too much money to suit their present landlord.

That many tenants, an Associated Press survey showed today, haveheen or shortly will be asked to move out of low rental public housing projects because their incomeare too high.

In Washington, the Federal Public Housing Authority indicated the 150,000 figure is a minimum estimate since it is based only on tenants who have filed statements of their earnings.

The requests to leave range in tone from polite suggestions to tenants that they begin looking around for new homes to definite eviction notices. The purpose, said a FPHA spokesman, "is to stimulate the ineligibles to look for other homes."

Generally, housing authorities don't expect to force any evictions if the tenants can find no other placeto live. But there is a growing movement to seek approval of the Office of Temporary Controls (OPA's successor) which would lead to court eviction notices.

* * *

THE OBJECT OF ALL THIS is to make room in the government-subsidized public projects for low income groups, especially veterans unable to find homes elsewhere.

In New York City alone, housing authorities have invited 2,769 families, approximately 11,000 inhabitants, to leave because their incomeshave exceeded the temporary limit of $3,000 annually.

Nationally, there are about 170,000 families housed in low rental projects. Of these, some 39,000 families are now ineligible for continued occupancy because of excessive income.

In the first half of 1946, the average income of the ineligible family was $2,472. In the same period, the average earnings of the eligible tenants was $1,450. Some low rental project inhabitants are known to be earning $4,000 and $5,000 a year.

Tenants' income limits allowed by housing authorities vary widely. The lwest, $36 a month, is permitted in Delaware county, Indiana, and Knoxville, Tenn. The highest is $360 a month in New Orleans.

* * *

DURING THE WAR, while incomes were rising, housing authorities around the country generally raised the maximum income limits. This was done because most of the tenants were war workers. Now, however, housing officials want some turnover in high income tenants to make room for eligibles.

Eviction notices have been mailed to 1,500 families in Pittsburgh; 1,000 in New Orleans; 1,200 in Cleveland; 500 in Memphis; 140 in Birmingham, Ala., and 129 in Denver.

TAFT FAVORS SUGAR RATION

WASHINGTON—(UE)—The administration's fight to beat down a challenge to its sugar rationing program has been given a boost by Sen. Robert A. Taft (R. Ohio).

Taft, chairman of the senate Republican policy committee, said he believed it would be necessary to extend the government's authority to ration and allocate both sugar and rubber.

These powers now are due to expire on March 31. But a direct challenge to the sugar rationing program is contained in an injunction being prepared under direction of U. S. District Judge F. Dickinson Letts.

Letts ruled that OPA's method of rationing sugar to industrial users—on the basis of the amount they used in previous years—is unfair and illegal.

Officials said the injunction, if upheld would disrupt the entire sugar rationing program.

Presumably congress would be asked to make the present method specifically legal in any extension legislation.

Taft said his committee discussed extension of the rationing powers at a meeting Thursday but reached no decision.

He said his personal opinion was that it would be necessary to extend the rationing and allocation authority for a while.

The house food investigating committee already has begun hearing on extension.

TOUGH WARREN HARDING FIVE MEETS TYGERS

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

BASEBALL SALARIES will hit an all-time high this year but on another professional sports front the play-for-pay guys may be cutting their own throats. . . . The dissension riddled pro golf ranks are in danger of losing a good share of their more lucrative tournaments. . . . Several promoters have pulled out of backing $10,000 opens because PGA officials cannot insure participation of most of the hot-shots. . . . Dick Metz's suspension for socking Fred Corcoran drew favor from the touring pros but not from the sponsors. . . . George S. May, sponsor of the rich All-American tournament, has cut the prize list in his Chicago links' extravaganza to $30,000 because of "lack of cooperation on the part of the PGA." . . . And the event may be cancelled entirely if the pros don't get things straightened out. . . . Last year the All-American split $45,000 between 50 pros.

Reiser Can Throw

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Outfielder Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dodgers has recovered so well from a bone operation last month that Dr. Robert F. Hyland told him today he could start throwing any time he desired. He was released from further treatment.

PREXY RECORD LISTS 9 WINS, THREE LOSSES

Mansfield Sophs Play John Simpson Cagers.

Mansfield's top attraction of the 1946-47 basketball season is up for consideration tonight on the Bengal hardwood.

Warren Harding, one of Ohio's ranking clubs, meets the Tyger varsity in the feature contest while John Simpson's clever band of Junior high court artists tangle with the Bengal sophomores in the prelim at 8:15.

The Executives have lost three of 12 games but are expected to present the classiest collection of high school basketeers seen on the local floor this season, exceeding even Ashland. Warren suffered defeats at the hands of Farrell, Pa., 33 to 26; Canton McKinley, 47 to 35, and Salem, 42 to 41. Farrell has won 12 of 14 tilts, while Canton and Salem are unbeaten.

Coach Dwight B. Lafferty's aggregation holds triumphs over: Cleveland Holy Name, 43 to 24; Cleveland East Tech, 45 to 30; Ashtabula Harbor, 40 to 22; Akron Kenmore, 60 to 45; Youngstown North, 55 to 37; Girard, 42 to 37; Youngstown Wilson, 39 to 15; Youngstown Chaney, 54 to 28, and Alliance, 58 to 36.

Four lettermen—Ed Bevan, Larry Imburgia, Bill Weaver and John Robison—are in Warren's starting lineup. All except Weaver played against Mansfield last year when the Prexies romped to a 59 to 41 win over the Bengals. Bill Henkel completes the first five.

Imburgia and Robison better the six-foot mark and the latter will be playing his last high school game. Robison graduates this week.

Imburgia has splashed 175 points through the hoop for an average of 14.6 a game. Robison trails with 72 while Bevan has 69, Weaver 64, and Henkel 43.

Coach Vern Hoffman has three players, who performed against Harding last year, ready for action. They are: Ollie Cline, Ralph Majors and Jerry Robfogel. Robfogel, 6-1 letterman forward, returned to the squad this week and should add needed reserve strength to the Tyger squtd.

Bloor, leading Tyger scorer with 131 points, will team with Majors at the forward posts tonight. Chuck Sisco will go at center and Cline and Nick Gagich at guards. Sisco trails Bloor with 110 points, Gagich has 103 and Cline 100.

John Simpson puts its unbeaten record on the block against the Sophs, who will field a lineup including five former Johnny Appleseed cagers. Simpson has won six straight and defeated the Sophs in a practice tilt early in the season.

Paul Ferguson, Bob McKown, Bernie Weaver, George Russell and Harry Osbun are the Appleseed lads who broke even in two games with Simpson last season. Ferguson, Weaver and Osbun are sure starters tonight along with Russell, McKown or Ken Carver filling the other two spots.

Norbert Shibinsky, ex-Simpson center, will not be in the Soph line-up. He suffered a leg injury against Fremont Ross Tuesday.

Don Cline, Ed Demyon, Willie Fowler and John Sazdanoff appeared against Appleseed in 1946. Charles Jenkins, high-scoring forward, will complete the lineup for Bob Kennedy's team tonight.

Glamor Boy Leads

NEW YORK — (AP) — Joe Fulks, the glamour boy of the hardwood, is far ahead in the individual scoring race in the Basketball Association of America today with 779 points in 32 games, a 24 point average following his 28 point total last night which sparked his Philadelphia mates to an 83-78 overtime victory over the Cleveland Rebels.

UNBEATEN CAGE MACHINE—John Simpson junior high basketball squad has won six straight games this season. The Bulldogs play the Mansfield sophs at Senior high tonight at 7 p. m. Shown, left to right, are: Jim Miller, guard; Charles Jenkins, forward; Don Cline, forward; John Sazdanoff, guard; Willie Fowler, guard; Wilbur McFadden, forward; Ed Demyon, center and Bob Kennedy, coach.

National League Gives Bell Powers of Monarch

CHICAGO—(AP)—National Football league club owners started sparring on the 1947 playing schedule today after empowering Commissioner Bert Bell with dictatorial authority to combat the gambling peril which the owners said was menacing sports.

Delegates of the 10-member league shoved all other matters aside yesterday and unanimously gave Bell the power to exile for life anyone connected with the league who becomes involved with gamblers.

The constitutional amendment provides that he can banish any player, official or employe:

(1) Who fails to report knowledge of a bribe offer, or

(2) Who received an order directly or indirectly by insinuation or implication to control or fix or accept or bet anything of value on a professional game in any manner whatsoever.

Furthermore, the amendment provides that any such knowledge by a player should be reported at once to his coach; any club officials having such knowledge of a gambling tieup must report it at once to Bell himself.

Violations may be punished by Bell by (1) indefinite suspension; (2) suspension for a specified time; (3) banishment for life; (4) a fine of not more than $2,000; (5) forced sale of stock held by the guilty party within 30 days.

The amendment is the direct offshot of the league's recent involvement in the Alvin Paris gambling scandal in New York.

The amendment also provides that the commissioner may bar from league parks any person deemed "detrimental to the best interests of the National Football league and/or professional football." The commissioner's decision in all cases will be final and without appeal.

Activity in the trade marts began when the Washington Redskins announced that they had traded Indian Jack Jacobs, backfield ace, to the Green Bay Packers for Fullback Bob Nussbaumer and an additional player to be selected from the Packer roster and agreed to by both clubs. Jacobs formerly played with the University of Oklahoma and Nussbaumer with Michigan.

Pioneers Stop Shelby, 43-24

Johnny Appleseed defeated the Shelby junior high quintet 43 to 24 at the Pioneers' gym yesterday afternoon. Captain Howard Tipper led the Appleseed team with eight field goals. This was the Pioneers' fourth victory.

Coach Norm Henline's Pioneers controlled both the defensive and offensive backboards throughout the game. The Appleseed eighth grade team dropped the Shelby eighth graders 20 to 16. Harmon split the nets of 15 of the Appleseed tallies.

Eagles Renew Cage Rivalry

ASHLAND — The Eagles of Ashland college travel to Wooster Saturday night to renew a rivalry which started 31 years ago with Ashland defeating the Scots 26 to 20.

Although Coach Mose Hole's Wooster Scots have compiled the most wins in that series, he is not forgetting that Ashland upset the Scots twice last season.

Coach Jimmy Richcreek's present Eagles will be seeking their third victory in seven cage contests. Richcreek will again count heavily on the scoring abilities of Ashlander Vince Barr.

Captain Barr has accounted for 133 points in six Eagle games for an average of 22.1. In defeating the Ohio Northern team 63 to 59, Barr broke a six-year scoring record when he netted 30 points.

Minutemen Vie For Revenge Over Blue Jays

Lexington's Minutemen will be looking for revenge in tonight's Richland county cage classic when they entertain the Bellville Blue Jays.

Coach Orville Kibler's Blue Jays snapped a four game Lexington winning streak 30 to 28 earlier this year. Coach John Rees's Minutemen can step into second place if they stop the Bellville combine.

Lexington has won six of its nine games while Bellville has captured seven victories against three setbacks.

Coach Ed Wysocki's Butler Bulldogs are favored to defeat Union for their 11th consecutive county victory on the latter's court. Coach Fred LaRue's Union team has won only two of 10 games.

Ontario is expected to win its seventh contest against Shiloh on the Ontario court, while Plymouth must play heads up ball to turn back Lucas on the latter's court. Ontario is tied with Lexington for third place.

Cuckley Decisions Weaver

F-H FIGHTERS NOTCH 4 WINS IN 3RD SHOW

Frank Truly, Lou Berry Top Amateur Performers.

Sid Cuckley, hard-hitting Akronite, won a clear-cut decision over Tom Weaver in the headline attraction of last night's action-packed fisticuff festival at Senior high.

Four Friendly House ringsmiths emerged victorious in the eight decision bouts last night as the largest crowd of the season, over 700 persons, witnessed the third F-H-40 et 8 amateur boxing program.

Weaver, the short Simpson tackle, matched Cuckley only in determination. The Akron lad, 1947 novice Golden Gloves champion, used his superior reach to pound Weaver around the ring after the Mansfield youngster copped the initial stanza.

Art Miller, 160; Frank Truly, 147; Bunchy Bair, 138 and Bill Eberhardt, 126 were the Friendly House simon pures to come out on the long end. Miller's right-hand packed plenty of authority in the four-round semi as he pummeled Bill Brock, former Akron GG champ, into submission.

Truly and Lou Berry, Akron, stood out as the top ring workmen on the card. Truly, making his first start since his discharge from the service, won a TKO over Darrell Murton, Marion. He had the Marion lad on the deck twice in the first heat and Referee Paul Carbetta stopped it after the second.

Berry, sawed-off clouter, put Jack Draper, Marion's '47 GG titleholder, away with a potent right in 34 seconds of the second round The classy welter put Draper down for a nine count in the first round to win his second victory before a Mansfield audience.

Eberhardt decisioned Jack Senkinger, Akron, feather, and Bair, another lad packing a wallop, defeated Howard Sprague, Mansfield Buckeye State AC lightweight.

Klay Milleron, Akron lightweight, knocked out Junior Duncan, F-H, in 51 seconds of the second round while Al Stein, Akron middleweight, took a TKO from John West when he had the Shelby youngster helpless in the second stanza.

The battle royal staged by Mike Wentz rated in the top spot as a crowd-pleaser. The little lads really tossed a lot of leather in their four minute presentation Dalbert and Delano Wright, Lee Robertson, Bob Pittinger, Bob Metz and Billy Harrington traded blows with gay abandon.

James Middlebrook and Tom Pandoff, both of the Friendly House, collided in the no-decision curtain raiser.

The bout between Walter Lumpkins, F-H and Olliss Levette, Marion was called off when the latter boxer suffered a fractured thumb at work.

Fans Will Hang From Rafters At Bellevue-Shelby Encounter

SHELBY—The "Standing Room Only" sign is expected to be hung on the ticket window at the Shelby high school auditorium-gymnasium tonight when the Whippets entertain Bellevue here in a Northern Ohio league cage tilt.

Although the auditorium and two balconies will seat 1,100 persons, school authorities expect an overflowing crowd for the game which will bring once defeated Bellevue up against the undefeated Whippets.

The two teams are tied with Upper Sandusky for the league lead.

Not since Bellevue won the state championship in 1945, has that league school developed such a powerful quintet as takes the floor here Friday night.

Coach Charles Williams' quintet has defeated Upper Sandusky, 29 to 23, the same team that dropped Bellevue out of the undefeated ranks, 44 to 36 In other league tilts, the Whippets routed Willard, 51 to 17, and Bucyrus, 32 to 22.

Bellvue has sailed through eight of its nine games The Whippets have won six of 11.

Boosting hopes of the Shelby five is the return to the line-up of Dick Seitz, high scoring center. He has been unable to play in the last two games because of an ankle injury.

The Whippets routed the Shelby Merchants, 40 to 21, in a practice tilt this week The Merchants hold first place in the Northern Ohio semi-pro cage league with six straight victories and will be seeking their seventh win here Saturday night on the Shelby high school floor against Shiloh

In other Northern Ohio league games Friday night, Bucyrus plays at Crestline, Galion at Norwalk and Willard at Upper Sandusky.

Ashland Seeks Ninth Straight

ASHLAND — Coach C. E. Taylor's Ashland high school quintet is favored to win its ninth consecutive cage victory at Marion tonight The A's have won 10 games in 11 starts.

Taylor's high scoring Ashland team meets the Harding Prexies who have copped only two of their nine contests.

The A's probable starting lineup will be: Dave Burns and Dick Messner, forwards; Don Drebus, center; and Bob Harpster and Dick Cooper, guards.

Ben F. Van Alstyne is the ninth Michigan State basketball coach since the sport was adopted in 1898.

'POINT BETTING' STIMULATES WAGERING; PERCENTAGES FAVOR BOOKMAKERS

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the third of a series of four articles dealing with the gambling "fix" situation.)

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN, INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(INS)—"Point betting" is a comparatively new development in the gambling craze that has the country in its grip.

This type of betting has had the effect of stimulating wagering on such games as football, basketball and hockey and may be a factor in the current gambling "fix" stories.

Betting on points is simply a matter of wagering by how many points a team will win or lose a game.

There has been agitation of late to induce newspapers not to publish in advance the estimated number of points by which a team figures to win.

Gambling has become big business in America. Millions of dollars are wagered on racing, football, baseball, basketball, hockey and prize fights. In all such betting the "percentage" always works in favor of the bookmaker.

It is reported some players are bettors themselves. They don't have to lose the game to win their bets They can win the game by enough points and "cash in."

College students who followed the team have the gambling fever. This writer was informed that you can go to Madison Square Garden when a big basketball game is being staged and find local students rooting for Duke, or some other outside team They want their own team to win—but by a certain number of points

The center of price betting on college athletics and "pro" football is said to be Minneapolis, especially on basketball games

It is reported that the Minneapolis price fixers no longer will quote a price line on basketball games played in the east

The bookmakers, as nearly everybody knows, always want a "sure thing." They have a fine, profitable racket. Even if a game isn't "in the bag," the percentage is operating in their favor and against those making bets.

For example: take the big Army-Notre Dame football game of last fall which ended in an 0-to-0 tie. The teams were evenly matched and the game highly publicized. Estimates of the amount wagered on this classic range all the way from 10 million to 50 million dollars.

The bookmaker took bets on either team. But you had to put up $6 to win $5, no matter which team you took. And to insure their profit many "books" added ½ or one point to each team's ultimate score so that the tie did not cancel out all bets. If a gambler accepted one thousand dollars worth of bets on each team, he couldn't lose. He automatically has a twenty per cent profit.

Suppose it's a case of Notre Dame playing Navy and the Irish from South Bend happen to be the favorite team. Here's where the "point betting" comes in.

You have to give ten points and lay $6 to win $5 if Notre Dame's your team If, however, you wanted Navy you would get from the bookie Navy plus ten points, but you'd still have to lay 6 to win 5

There's the 20 per cent advantage for the bookie, again.

Let's say the bookmaker gets $20,000 in wages on Notre Dame and $15,000 on Navy. He will then lay off (that is, bet elsewhere) $2,500 on Navy.

Regardless of which team wins he is ahead $3,750.

Basketball is bet the same way as football.

THE BENZOL BLEND GASOLINE EXTRA

THE Benzol DOES IT!

It's really and sensationally different because it's supercharged with a powerful percentage of highly volatile benzol . . . it vaporizes much faster than ordinary gasolines. At way below zero, it's just like Jet Propulsion . . . it gets you going instantly . . . and keeps you going . . . with faster, smoother, surging, knockfree power.

You'll enjoy instant acceleration and power . . . with never a knock, ping or cackle! . . . Top this off with the fact that benzol reduces gum and carbon formation on spark plugs, rings and valves, and you've really got something! Once you try it, you'll always buy it!

Planes Carry Covers to Turkey

The Post Office department had news today for Mansfield philatelists.

It announced that first-flight air mail covers to Ankara, Turkey, will be carried by Pan American Airways. Special cachets will be applied to all covers sent to the postmaster, New York City, bearing the required postage of 15 cents per half ounce, and accompanied by a request that they be sent on the first flight. Requests must reach the post office by Jan. 30.

Turkish postal authorities have given assurance that special markings will be applied to the letters at Ankara, and that they will be returned to addressees.

Letters postmarked at other post offices or air mail fields, and articles mailed in the usual manner, will not receive the special cachet, officials said.

1—Death Notices

BREWER

MRS. ALPHRETTA CLARK, 89 Brinkerhoff ave., widow of Fred, mother of Charles, Clarence and Mrs. O. H. Schettler, and sister of Russel Clark and Mrs. H. A. Rhodes passed away at Mansfield Sanitarium hospital Thursday evening. Funeral services will be conducted at the P. E. Rutherford Co. funeral home, Columbus Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. Interment in Union cemetery, Columbus. Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home until ten o'clock Saturday morning. (Finefrock's)

2—Card of Thanks

WE WISH to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our relatives, friends and neighbors who were so kind and helpful in our bereavement at the loss of our dear mother and grandmother; especially we want to thank Monsignor Goebel, Father Downey and Father Riedlinger for their consolation and help; the pallbearers and the Geiger funeral home and all those who helped in any way.
The family of Mrs. Mary S. Murphy

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORIUM: In memory of our darling son and grandson, Frederick Craig Cliffe II, who passed away one year ago Jan. 24, 1946, at the age of 5 months.
One year ago our Darling was called from our midst,
To the beautiful home above, to be one of Gods angels,
We miss his sweet cheerie smiles,
His memory we will always keep,
Our sorrow is so great, and homes so lonely,
But God loved him to, and knew best.
Our loss is heavens gain,
And you are safe in the arms of Jesus.
Sadly missed by Parents and Grandparents.
Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Cliffe
Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Grandstaff

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 1-24

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

An intrepid hunter was asked by one of the boys round the cracker barrel to recount his most hair-raising experience in the trackless forest of the north.

"I was deep in the woods one afternoon," he began with no particular reluctance. "I was plodding along minding my own business when suddenly a huge grizzly bear sneaked up behind me. He pinned my arms to my sides and started to squeeze the breath out of me.

"My gun fell out of my hands. First thing you know, the bear had stooped down, picked up the gun, and was pressing it into my back."

"What did you do?" chorused the audience on cue.

"What could I do?" sighed the hunter. "I married his daughter." When the doctor who was examining him turned pale, the patient began to get nervous. "Tell me, Doctor," he said. "Is there anything serious the matter with me?" "Oh, nothing much," said the doctor, "but from now on, if I were you, I wouldn't bother to begin any serial stories."

New Recorder Does Tricks Sans Mirrors

"He does it with mirrors" is often said of magicians and others who do tricks no one can understand. A new recorder now on the market doesn't "do it with mirrors."

But it does "mirror" music, voices, and any other sounds, and so has been given the name Soundmirror.

At Alex Turner's Home Appliances store yesterday afternoon one of the machines was being demonstrated. A popular song played on a phonograph was picked up and then replayed. It sounded as clear as if coming from the phonograph.

Later, conversation of several persons grouped about was played back, giving them an idea of how their voices sound.

The recorder uses a magnetic paper tape. One roll of the tape plays for a half hour.

The device has been used to record the first sounds a baby makes, to be played back some years later.

It has been used to record favorite radio programs, to be replayed later.

In addition it can provide fun at parties particularly if some of the guests are not aware their voices are being recorded. Uses have been found for it in businesses, schools and radio stations.

The paper tape, which can be replayed up to a thousand times, can also be erased and new music or voices recorded.

CHIEF REPORTS BUSY YEAR FOR CITY OFFICERS

866 in 1945 to 999 last year. Six persons were killed as compared with four in 1945 and injuries jumped from 155 to 211.

In 1946 the dollar valuation of stolen property totaled $34,545, twice as high as the 1945 valuation and highest in four years. About $16,483 worth of the property stolen last year was recovered.

According to police records, the percentage of stolen property recovered has increased steadily since 1942. In 1943 only one-eleventh was recovered; in 1944, slightly less than one-third and in 1945 and 1946, about one-half.

* * *

10,000 Tickets Issued.

Last year the police issued more than 10,000 tickets for parking and for traffic signal and stop sign violations. This figure was nearly twice that of any year since 1941.

Of the total persons arrested last year, 2,208 were men and 186 were women. Nearly 1,000 were booked for intoxication, while 300 others were booked for speeding or unsafe operation. Another 206 were charged with other driving or motor vehicle violations.

Booked on "investigation" charges were 188 persons. They were later either held on other charges or released.

The number of persons charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol jumped from 51 in 1945 to 75 last year.

Only 20 persons were arrested on major charges, ranging from murder to attempted robbery.

Another 171 were charged with disorderly conduct; 113 with gambling and 78 with assault and battery. From 20 to 25 persons were booked on each of the following charges: petit larceny, delinquency, breaking and entering, and auto theft.

From 10 to 15 were booked on each of the following: fighting, loitering, being a suspicious person and contributing to the deliquency of minors.

OHIO PASTORS WILL HEAR NIEMOELLER

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Pastor Martin Niemoeller, former Nazi concentration camp internee, will deliver addresses in Columbus on Wednesday and Thursday.

Niemoeller will speak in connection with the Ohio pastor's convention which opens Monday for four days.

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, president of the Federal council of Churches and brother of Senator Robert A. Taft, and Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor and avowed candidate for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination, also will address the delegates.

Floor Collapses, Killing 3 Firemen

MINNEAPOLIS—(U.P.)—A $150,000 fire in which three firemen lost their lives and eight others were injured was traced today to a paint shop in the basement of an auto agency garage.

The firemen plunged through flame-weakened floors while fighting the fire, and three of them suffocated while they were trapped in the basement of the sprawling, one-story structure.

PLUMBING CONTROL ORDINANCE STUDIED

Plans for a Richland county plumbing ordinance will be discussed tomorrow at a meeting of the county board of health, Dr. Fred O. Tonney, city-county health commissioner, reported today.

He said a study of ordinances in force in other counties will be discussed with an eye to using them as a pattern for a Richland county measure.

Dr. Tonney said he believes plumbing control measures should be enacted before too much new building gets underway in the county.

Suspect Held In Club Fight

Police held for questioning today an East Fifth street man they suspected of participation in a fight earlier in the day at the Midway night club, East Fifth street. Officers said the man tried to elude them in a truck owned by the H & H Coal company, Park avenue east. A check with state highway patrol showed the man had no license, police said. No charges had been filed early today.

Wants Monopolies Owned by Public

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Socialist Leader Norman Thomas today advocated public control of monopolies and semi-monopolies.

The former presidential candidate told an Ohio State university audience that the number of hidden and partially hidden monopolies has increased since the war. When they are not serving the common good, they must be placed under public ownership, he said.

DAM GUARDS QUEEN CITY FROM FLOODS

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Cincinnati's huge new Mill Creek dam will return flood control benefits of $80,000,000 in the next half century as it forever spares the Queen City from "a catastrophe of such magnitude" as the 1937 flood, Lt. Gen. R. A. Wheeler, chief of the army corps of engineers, said today.

In a prepared address, he described the $10,000,000 1,750-foot long, 83-foot flood crest barrier between the Ohio river and the industrial heart of Cincinnati as the largest structure of its kind in the world.

General Wheeler shared speaking honors with U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, civic and business leaders at a luncheon in connection with formal dedication of the dam late today.

HEADS SYNOD

WOOSTER—(U.P.)—The Rev. E. S. Henrickson of Lorain today became the new chairman of the Ohio Presbyterian Synod's committee on Christian education.

The committee, which met here yesterday, also named the Rev. Robert D. Bulkley of Bowling Green as vice chairman and the Rev. Charles R. Johnson of St. Marys as secretary.

FRENCH OFFER GERMAN PLAN

PARIS—(U.P.)—The French government proposed today that the allies set up a permanent federation of German states, patterned in many respects after the United States.

The French plan, disclosed by the foreign ministry, will be put before the Big Four foreign ministers when they meet in Moscow to start work on the German peace treaty.

All powers not expressly allocated to the Central government would be reserved to the states, the number and boundaries of which were left open for future decision.

The French suggested that until the occupation of Germany ends, the centralization of certain functions of the government remain under allied control.

A foreign office spokesman said the French plan sought to undo the consolidation of the old German states under Prussian rule, and at the same time provide the Central government with enough strength to give Germany a national identity.

Ultimately, under the plan, the Germans would have a single national assembly comprised of four representatives from each state. They would be chosen by state presidents with the consent of the state legislatures, and would serve four-year terms.

VICTIMS OF FUMES REPORTED BETTER

Mr. and Mrs. John Gossom, 41½ South Diamond street, and Mrs. Harry Stalter, 317 High street, who were found unconscious at the Gossom home yesterday, were reported improving today at General hospital.

The three were found by Dr. B. E. Shreffler who went to the Gossom home on a routine call. He administered first aid and sent the three to General hospital. Mrs. Stalter, mother of Mrs. Gossom had been called to the home because of her daughter's illness.

Dr. Shreffler told police there was evidence Mr. and Mrs. Gossom had taken a sedative before Mrs. Stalter arrived and that Mrs. Stalter may have fainted when she saw them unconscious.

Library Board To Meet Tuesday

Annual meeting of the Mansfield Public Library board will be held next Tuesday at 4 p. m. in the library, Miss Lois MacKellar, head librarian, said today.

Officers of the board will be elected and reports from the various committees will be heard.

LIBRARY GETS TARKINGTON'S FINAL NOVEL

Hoosier Author Was Finishing 'Show Piece' at His Death.

Booth Tarkington's SHOW PIECE, the novel which he was finishing at the time of his death, and A TREASURY OF STEPHEN FOSTER, a gift of the Nomad club of Mansfield in memory of the late Miss Ada Sturges, highlight the fiction and non-fiction to be released to the public Monday at the Mansfield Public library.

Again turning to the younger generation, Tarkington took a principal role as the friend of a group of young people. The group's shining star is Irving Pease, who at 14 accepts the acclaim of his fellows with a casual grace and loyalty. But as he grows into manhood, his fine qualities are revealed as merely a superficial facade for his egotism and it is his less-favored friend who becomes the true hero of the book.

A narrative of the aftermath of an Indian raid on the town of Dygartsbush, New York, in 1778, is told by Walter D. Edmonds in IN THE HANDS OF THE SENECAS. It is episodic, telling about different groups of people exposed to a common disaster and tells of events after the cabins have been burned and most of the men killed. It is chiefly the story of Delia Borst, who is adopted and married by an Indian. There are also accounts of the fates of other women taken at the same time.

THE WALLS OF JERICHO, by Paul I. Wellman, tells of the color, violence and drama of Kansas as she emerges from the frontier days into the present century. This provides a background for the story of Jericho and of the struggle for power between two of its leading citizens, a young lawyer and the owner of the local newspaper. The novel itself is a story of the ways a man in a small town can become a national figure.

Other fiction: TOMORROW WILL BE FAIR, DuJardin; STRANGE AND FANTASTIC TALES, Margolies; ANGRY DUST, Stockbridge; THE OLD MILL, Wilson; AWAY WENT THE LITTLE FISH, Bennett.

* * *

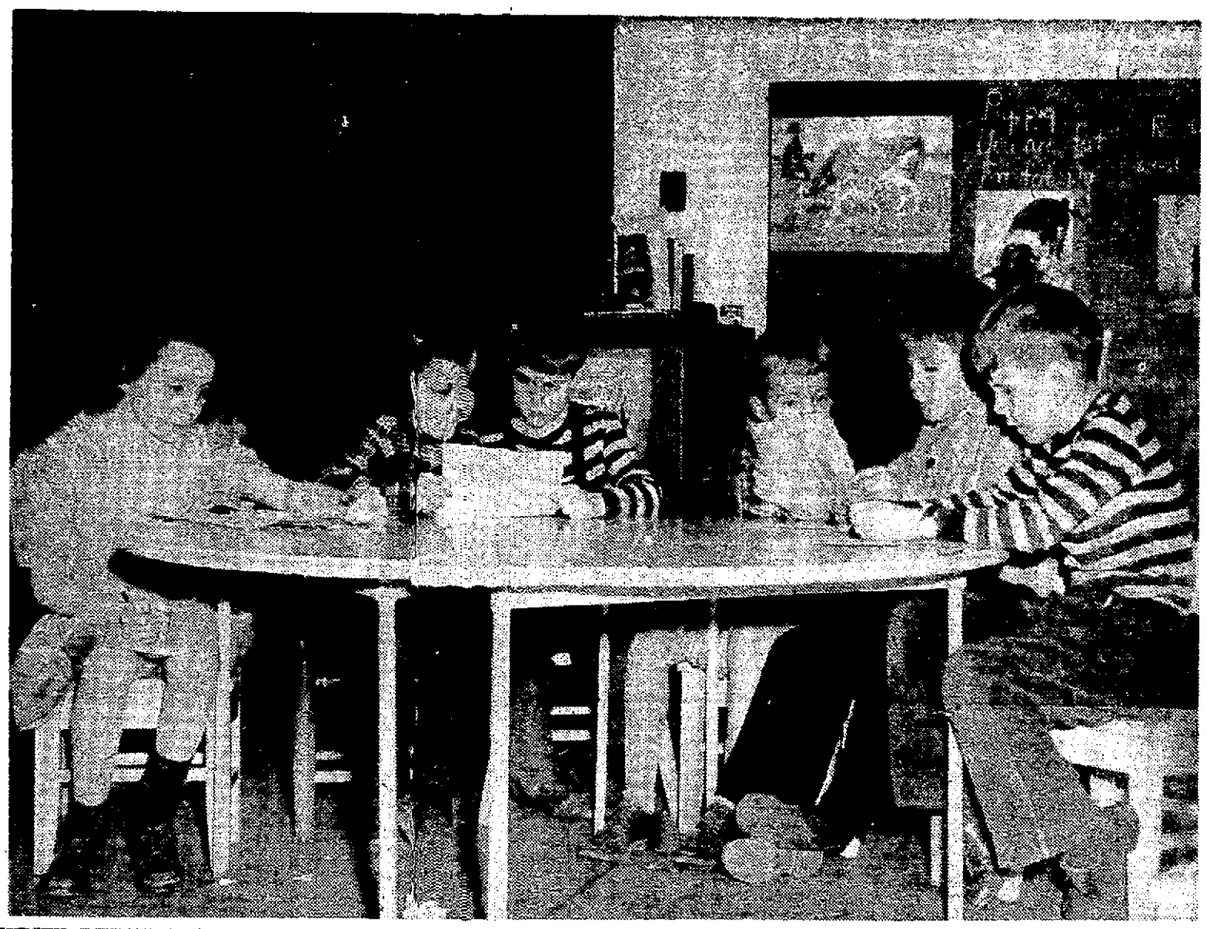
In the BROCADED SARI, Ishvani, an Indian dancer, tells of her childhood, marriage and early divorce. She reveals the inner life of a well-to-do Moslem home, with those restraints which create a type of family life perhaps less known to Americans than any other in the world. The book tells of three generations and various branches of the family, but in the end it is the author's own story that emerges.

Kurt von Schuschnigg became chancellor of Austria, after the assassination of Dolfuss. His story, AUSTRIAN REQUIEM, reaches a crescendo in the bitter days extending from the famous interview between Hitler and Schuschnigg at Berchtesgaden to the final overwhelming of Austria by Germany. In the hands of the Gestapo he was deprived of even his name, but his faith never wavered and under the very noses of his captors he penned this record of his faith.

Harry Emerson Fosdick's ON BEING FIT TO LIVE WITH is a collection of 25 sermons, which were delivered by Dr. Fosdick at the Riverside church in New York City. These are unusually significant because they deal most exclusively with living in the post-war world.

A thorough and delightful account of a fascinating island is told by Erna Ferguson in CUBA, the story of this fascinating land of sophisticated city people and primitive Negroes is told. The book also has valuable information on Cuba's history, economy, and culture, presented in highly readable fashion by one who has seen Cuba.

Other non-fiction: GREAT ANSWER, Runbeck; ART OF RUSSIA, Rubissow; CAMPUS VERSUS CLASSROOM, Johnson; STATISTICAL QUALITY CONTROL, Grant; NEW GUIDE TO RECORDED MUSIC, Kolodin; HIGH SCHOOLS FOR TOMORROW, Stiles; BERNARD M. BARUCH, Shumway.



WRITE DUTCH CHILDREN—Twety-five pupils of the Country Day school are exchanging letters with 25 children in the town of Leidschendam, Holland. This exchange is part of the school's "Holland Project." Boxes of warm clothing and food are sent to the Dutch children, as well as the letters. Above, left to right, Linda Lowrey, Rickey Henkel, Terry Black, Ann Fisher, John Weir and Joel Black read some of the letters they have received from Holland since Christmas.—(News-Journal staff photo)

DUTCH LEARN FRENDSHIP OF U. S. THROUGH 'HOLLAND PROJECT' HERE

By NITA BRANSON

Twenty-five, Dutch school children in the town of Leidschendam, Holland, are richer with warm clothing and friendship as the result of the "Holland Project," started last fall by the 25 pupils of the Country Day school.

The happy project began through hearing Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt tell of the needs of Holland's school children, according to Mrs. Ethelouise Carpenter, director of the school.

"Through her we contacted the United Relief and were given the names of 25 children in the Leidenschdam school," she explained.

The teacher of these 25, Miss Anny Steenhuis, wrote to Mrs. Carpenter telling her of the personal things so badly needed by all the children in her school and their parents.

* * *

AS THE RESULT of the exchange of letters, a room was set aside in the Country Day school and named "The Holland Room." Into this room went, from time to time, packages of all the things the people of Leidschendam needed.

By Christmas time, enough had accumulated to permit a sizeable box to be sent to Miss Steenhuis for distribution among the families of her pupils. This box contained three wool coats, 14 women's dresses and skirts, three men's suits, 11 men's shirts, two suits of men's underwear, 30 sleeping garments for little children, 50 suits of children's underwear, 18 dresses, 21 boys' blouses and jackets, 63 sweaters, 13 caps, 50 pairs of boys' pants, three boys' suits, 34 pairs of children's shoes, three pairs of men's shoes, 77 pairs of sox, six pairs of galoshes, five pairs of rubbers, 40 articles of baby's clothing, eight pairs of curtains, eight towels, 20 bars of soap, together with remnants, canned meat and ties. The box weighed 400 pounds.

* * *

"A LETTER from Miss Steenhuis," Mrs. Carpenter recalls, "told of one child who had never worn anything but wooden shoes. When she received a pair of the leather-soled shoes sent in our box, she put them on and danced for a whole day in order to get used to them."

"Another incident rather amusing concerned Miss Steenhuis' brother. She wrote asking that if we had any pajamas, please to include a pair for her brother, who had only one pair for summer and winter. We had no idea whether he was 12 or 2, but we sent a medium pair that suited. We found out later, that he is 32."

* * *

IN ADDITION to the box sent by the schools as a whole, there have been individual boxes sent by different children of the school. The letters thank you for the gifts are charming and touching. Since they are written by children to children, they contain only the news that interest children. The receipt of one of these letters make an exciting day for the Country Day children.

Dini Boeke, whose father is headmaster of a secondary school, writes to Pat Weir and Judy Maxwell, a charming letter of her family and their doings.

"At home," she says in a recent letter, "we are five sisters and two brothers. Maybe you wonder how Mary is. Well, she is just a peach; red cheeks and very small brilliant eyes. She is only eight months old. She is our very darling. She just is talking da, da, da, da, Funny, funny!".

* * *

DINI TELLS of their Christmas, when they too, had a pine tree and a manger "with the Christmas child, Jesus, and Mary and Joseph." We don't get presents, however," she said, "for our presents day is Santa Claus on the 5th of December. At midnight on the 25th of December we had gone with our father to the midnight mass. . . . When we came home our mother had laid the table; very cozy, illuminated with sixteen colored lights (candles), and we had a delicious breakfast. It was a wonderful Christmas day."

Dini wrote her letter in legible, beautifully printed English and at the bottom her father had added an appreciative "Thank you." "Our beautiful country is robbed and poor," he said, "but we hope helped by the 'Allied' to revive."

JOEL BLACK, also had a letter, one from Reinie Rolvink. Her letter had been written in Dutch and Mercel Steeenhuis, brother of Miss Anny, the teacher, had translated it into English, beneath her fine handwriting.

Reinie says, "I am 11 years and am in the fourth grade. I have yet eight sisters and four brothers. We have two twins. The youngest and the oldest. The youngest twins are seven years old and the oldest 26 years."

Most of the letters received, Mrs. Carpentetr says, tell of exceptionally large families.

SO GRATEFUL are the children for their gifts that some of them have dolled themselves up in their new clothes and hair ribbons and sent their pictures. In spite of the hardships of the past few years they are mostly healthy and happy looking.

"While Miss Steenhuis tells us that food is not as scarce as clothing and bedding," Mrs. Carpenter said, "There IS a scarcity of proteins, so we sent canned meat and cheese. So much of Holland's land was destroyed that they are spending all their money and energy now in getting it productive again."

Now, the children are collecting things again for their spring box to Leidschendam. In it will go cooking utensils, pins, needles, toothbrushes, and an assortment of small odds and ends so hard to obtain.

FIGHTS 'JIM CROWISM'

CLEVELAND —(AP)— President William E. Stevenson of Oberlin college last night urged an unrelenting fight against "Jim Crowism," on the business, union, school, church and community fronts, in an address before the Urban League.

RICHLAND PCA NO. 1 IN OHIO

The Richland County Production Credit association has more members than the association in any other county in Ohio, Horace Uhl, Richland county association representative, reported to the organization at a meeting Wednesday night in Madison Township high school.

He added that the group ranks second in membership in the four-state district of Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Ohio.

The meeting, held jointly with the Richland County National Farm Loan association, was attended by about 270 members of the two organizations.

Vance Clever, secretary-treasurer of the Richland County National Farm Loan association, reported the group is among the upper five in Ohio in the amount of new business closed.

Hugh Osbun was re-elected and Carl A. Baker was elected to the board of directors of the Richland County National Farm association. Both live in Weller township.

The president of each group presided at the respective business session, W. E. Stough, Mansfield R. D. 6 for the Production Loan association, and Fred W. Dill, Bellville R. D. 1, for the Farm Loan association.

'We Need Room, Please Help,' Amvets Say In Public Plea

"We need room, please help." This message from Mansfield Amvets, Robert P. Spreng Post No. 26, went out today as the veterans, by advertising and publicity, sought to secure a meeting place for the club's 340 members.

F. J. Tonnemacher, chairman of the drive, said that for several months he and his committee have vainly sought a headquarters that would provide an assembly room for about 300 persons, and an office.

"Now we have reached the point," Tonnemacher said, "where we feel that perhaps an appeal to the public will locate a spot for us. We are willing and prepared to buy or to lease the property.

"Our 340 members, all veterans, need a place to meet whenever we feel the need, in ordr that we may plan, and carry through, many cooperative civic projects."

At present the Amvets share the facilities of the Memorial building with several other organizations.

Auto League Meets In City

Frank Wood, grand vice chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, gave a talk on Pythianism at a meeting of Madison lodge No. 26, K. of P. when members entertained the Auto League last night. About 100 attended.

James King was master of ceremonies. The program included tap dancing by Mary Jones, acrobatic dancing by Betty Baird, singing by Joan Brandt and music by Al Burley.

At the close of the business session and program, refreshments were served by Glenn Yeager, Ralph Harris and Fred LaRue. The next meeting of the Auto League will be held at Mt. Gilead on Feb. 26.

Ohio Voters Lukewarm on Bonus, Believes Lawmaker

NOT ALL VETS FAVOR PLAN, SAYS LIGGITT

Soldier Organizations Split on Issue at Present

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— "A good possibility" that the World War II bonus for Ohio veterans will not pass when offered to voters at the next general election was advanced today by Sen. D. A. Liggitt, R., Logan, chairman of the senate military affairs committee

"Many veterans feel that the returns from a bonus won't justify their expenditures later when they have to pay it off," Liggitt explained.

He cited the case of a veteran, a civil service employe at Wright Field making $3,800 a year who just took out a mortgage on an $8,000 home.

"That boy is starting to think about taxes," the senator said, "and he's afraid he'll have to pour more into the bonus plan than he'll get out of it."

The American Legion has taken no official stand on the bonus, and the American Veteran's committee turned it down at their last national convention by a vote of 2 to 1.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American War Veterans are for it.

Liggitt said it is a certainty that some sort of plan will be ready for Ohio voters by next election

"We promised it to them and they're going to get it," he said

At least seven proposals are before the assembly, all promising a minimum of $10 for each month of service On appropriates $20 a month for disabled veterans until discharged and all but one provides for $15 for overseas service.

Liggitt estimated it will be at least another 2 years before payments start, if the amendment gets by the election Eighteen months, he thought will be needed to set up the state machinery for payment

He favored passage of the bonus as soon as possible.

"It's better to do it now and get it over with while the money is available," he said. "If we don't the issue will be brought up again and again."

Lumber Dealers Meet In Columbus

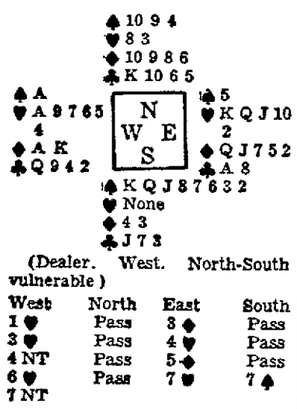
At least two Mansfielders will represent the city at the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers convention in Columbus, Jan. 28-30.

Fred H. Frankenberger, of the Mansfield Lumber company, and William H. Ross, of Home Materials company, said yesterday that they planned to attend the convention. Ross indicated that other members of his firm may attend some of the sessions.

Featured speaker at the session will be H. R Northup, secretary-manager of the National Retail Lumber Dealers association, Washington, D. C.

Barclay On Bridge

There is no question of courage involved in the problem of whether or not to make a high sacrifice bid. It is a pure matter of mathematics The player who is clear-headed in his ability to count the number of points about to be lost when the opponents make their contract. and can then calculate that his side would lose less through sacrificing and getting doubled—that is the fellow who makes the good sacrifice bids.



(Dealer. West. North-South vulnerable)

1 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	7 ♥	7 ♠

After that deal, South's opponents gave him credit for terrific courage in making his vulnerable sacrifice bid at the grand slam level—the first time they had ever heard of such a thing in rubber bridge when the bidder and his partner had done nothing previously except pass.

South, however, refused to accept orchids for bravery.

"You can compliment me for my ability to add if you want," he said, "but that is all."

Then he pointed out how he had calculated that the grand slam bonus, not vulnerable, would have been 1,000 points, the game would be worth about 300, and the tricks taken would bring 210, a total of 1510

Against that, he had reckoned he could take seven tricks himself, and it was probable he could pick up one trick somewhere in North's hand—in which he was correct, as a club trick could have been developed. Taking eight tricks would leave him down five, he figured, for a loss of 1400

"Wouldn't you rather lose 1400 than 1510?" he asked. All agreed his bid was a good one, but so was West's 7-No Trumps over it, a contract he made easily.

Insects Superior to Men, Kiwanis Members Are Told

Insects, in proportion to their size, are in many ways superior to men, Mansfield Kiwanis club members and guests were told yesterday by Fred Peden, of Dayton.

Speaking at the club's luncheon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel on "Termites In Action," Peden gave some examples of insect "superiority"

"An ordinary clothes moth," he said, "can eat five times its own weight in a day This would be roughly equivalent to the average baby consuming 37 quarts of milk per day.

"A common flea can jump 50 times its own length. This would mean that a six-foot man could jump with ease over a 300-foot building

"Insects will always be here," he said "It is a matter of control and not extermination"

Peden is vice president of Extermital Chemicals, Inc.

Termites, which feed on cellulose, and never work in the open, can only be detected by experts with training and experience, Peden said They enter buildings through a crack in the basement wall or floor, through voids or openings in walls built of stonework, brick, or concrete block, or through a piece of wood which has contact with the earth by extending through the walls and floors

In a film following his talk, Peden showed how termites work

William Toole, manager of Mansfield Sears-Roebuck storeee, was introduced as a new Kiwanian member. J H. Glasener was program chairman.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

"Luxury" taxes are very generally commended—the only argument being about what constitutes "luxuries."

According to insurance statistics, plenty of money is being hidden away in sugar bowls—and it's nice to find some use for such things.

Now passing around is an item to the effect that the California Almond Growers Exchange is seeking a ban on importation of foreign nuts—and some of the domestic ones should be kept out of politics.

Report Reveals Expanse of Services

ANYONE who takes the little time required to read the 1946 annual report of the Mansfield Community fund will feel a new sense of gratification at the operation of the eleven red feather agencies in the city.

The report is well prepared. It is attractively bound—and inexpensively! The text is clear and brief. And the financial tables are so simplified as to be clearly understood by the layman.

Particularly interesting are the sections on some of the lesser known agencies. The excellent work of the St. Vincent de Paul society in improving neglected homes in the Catholic community is concisely presented. How the Salvation Army has striven to meet the transient problem is well pointed out. The fact that 30 Mansfield dentists donated 190 hours to preventive work for school children is revealed in the section on the Dental clinic.

It would be possible to mention scores of other items in the report that make it a bit of commendable public relations work.

One thing alone seems to be missing. The persons whose experience and ability combined to prepare the report should surely have some sound recommendations for improved future operations. These recommendations are, of course, made verbally at the annual meeting and throughout the year. Including them in the written report would merely show how very much the city's Community Chest officials are on their toes.

Such recommendations might stir up controversy among persons particularly partisan to one agency. But with the general confidence in the competency of the Community Chest officials it is likely that such controversies would be far more informative than dangerous.

New County Jail Again Recommended

GRAND JURY recommendation of a new Richland county jail isn't a new idea. This has been recognized as a need for a long time but has never gone any further than the suggestion stage—and probably won't, unless the present 66-year-old structure is destroyed by fire, or something, as was the requirement in getting a new Richland county home a couple of decades ago.

The present county jail was built in 1880, and accords with ideas of that period rather than keeping pace with progress—as has been the case in much of the public business associated with county units of government.

It is noted that the grand jury report recommends improvements in the present jail until "building conditions and funds permit construction of a new one." Judging from past experience it would probably be just as well for such improvements to contemplate continued occupancy of the present structure for another 34 years—thus rounding out a full century for the already ancient jail.

Poll Shows 'Open Shop' Preference

WHILE a public opinion poll cannot be considered conclusive, because of its limited canvass, it at least gives an idea of the trend of thinking on the particular subject presented

That may be regarded as the case in a recent Gallup poll on the question: "Which one of the three types of shop do you prefer—the closed shop, the union shop, the open shop?"

Explanation given of the "closed shop" is that it requires every worker in a company to belong to a union before he can be hired.

The "union shop," it was explained, requires every worker in a company where there is a union to join that union after he is hired.

The "open shop," as generally understood, does not compel any worker to join a union, but allows each employe to decide whether or not to join.

Results of the poll are presented for thoughtful consideration at a time when some leaders of minority labor groups have seemed to disregard public welfare in the promotion of selfish interests.

The poll, rather surprisingly, revealed: In favor of closed shop, 8 per cent; favor union shop, 18 per cent; favor open shop, 66 per cent; no opinion, 8 per cent.

It can scarcely be doubted that last year's widespread adoption of the strike technique by dictators of "closed shop" policies strongly influenced public opinion on this subject, as too many millions of people suffered the consequences of such arbitrary work stoppages to be favorably impressed with that sort of procedure.

Mansfield Jaycees Getting Into Action

MANSFIELD'S Junior Chamber of Commerce has shown a remarkable resurgence since its members returned from service in the war. Many new members have been added A number of worthy projects have been sponsored. And this week the custom of entertaining bosses at an annual dinner was revived.

The young men in this group are to be commended for their enthusiasm. As their national leader Philip Ebeling pointed out, they are the only well-known organization whose membership is limited strictly to men under 36.

The Junior Chamber can be expected to be of increasing value to the community as its directors learn to concentrate their efforts on projects which can be carried to completion primarily by the efforts of their own group. The Jaycees have already shown that they can be a constructive force in public affairs.

Anent the abrupt arrival of winter weather, the Columbus Dispatch philosophically concludes: "There is nothing anyone can do about it except to stoke up the furnace and enjoy all the comforts of home on evenings like this."

One of those booster slogans heralds the news: "There's Room to Grow In Massachusetts"—which is found to have nothing to do with the housing shortage, however.

It is announced that February is to be observed as "Chess month"—but is one short month enough for a long game?

Clyde Moore regrets that General Sherman isn't around "to go down there and show 'em who's boss in Georgia."

THE FIRST HAIRCUT IN 15 YEARS

Backstage Big Business Support Given Georgia's Young Talmadge

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Not many of them will admit it, but it was the powerful backstage support given Herman Talmadge by Georgia big business that really boosted him up the steps of the state capitol.

One Georgia businessman franker than the rest is genial Chip Robert, ex-treasurer of the Democratic national committee and engineer for some of the biggest army-navy construction jobs. Chip candidly admits that he pulled all the wires possible to put the cracker dictator on the throne of Georgia.

Chip is not so frank, however, about one hitherto undisclosed brush he had with retiring Governor Ellis Arnall which may shed light on his love for Talmadge.

Some time ago, Governor Arnall called at the White House and invited President Truman to visit Georgia, the second home of Franklin Roosevelt. Truman tentatively accepted, though plans were left indefinite.

Shortly thereafter, Chip Robert went to the White House and also invited Truman to come to Georgia. And, unlike Arnall, who had said little to the press, Chip gave out a detailed statement of his plans for entertaining the president of the United States.

Back in Atlanta, Governor Arnall read Chip's ornate entertainment schedule in the morning paper. Immediately he picked up the telephone and called Mr. Robert.

"Chip," said the governor, "I see you have invited the president to come to Georgia. That's fine. I also note that you've arranged for him to have breakfast at the Driving club, a luncheon at the City club, and a reception at the Atlanta Biltmore. That's fine, too. We Georgians are hospitable.

"But I think you should also know that at the same time you're inviting Mr. Truman to breakfast at the Driving club, I'm inviting him to breakfast at the governor's mansion. And at the same time you say he's going to be lunching at the City club, I'm inviting him to lunch with me. And at the time you're inviting him to a reception at the Atlanta Biltmore, I'm inviting him to Warm Springs.

"And" concluded Arnall, "the president is going to have to choose between Chip Robert and the governor of Georgia."

Mr. Robert immediately dropped his plans for entertaining President Truman. Instead, he began laying plans to put Talmadge in the governor's mansion.

Pot vs. Kettle.

If there is one spot in black Republican Pennsylvania that really needs cleaning up, it is Delaware county—run by the notorious McClure machine, a bunch of gamblers, bootleggers, and petty chiselers.

And if there is one spot in Washington that really needs cleaning up, it is the sergeant-at-arms office in the house of representatives, presided over for fifteen years by a genial democratic race-track fan and oil speculator, who left behind a shortage of over $125,000.

Yet of all places, and with the entire USA to pick from, the Republicans went to graft-ridden Delaware county, Pennsylvania (former home of this columnist), to pick the man entrusted with cleaning up the Democratic sergeant-at-arms mess.

The new Republican sergeant-at-arms, William Russell, was former treasurer of Delaware county, placed in that office by the famous McClure machine. The McClure machine has placed some other interesting people in positions of public trust, and here are some of them:

Wm J McClurg, who served nine months in jail for gambling, now sealer of weights and measures of the city of Chester; Hubert J. Ryan, sentenced to one year and a day in a federal rum conspiracy, now meat inspector of Chester; Albert J. Reading, sentenced to 18 months suspended sentence and three years probation in a rum conspiracy, now deputy sheriff; Harry G. Tillman, sentenced to one year and a day and fined $3,000 in a rum conspiracy, now deputy sheriff.

Then there is John J. McClure himself, boss of the county, who was sentenced to 18 months in jail and fined $10,000 in a rum conspiracy while serving as state senator, but who got his jail sentence dropped when the prohibition act was repealed.

GOP Shortage Trouble.

It was as a part of this machine that new Sergeant-at-Arms William Russell served as Delaware county treasurer from 1936 though 1939, later being brought to Washington by Congressman Wolfenden for a minor job in the sergeant-at-arms' office

Having served as a GOP member of the sergeant-at-arms office under the Democrats, William Russell, according to that sacred shiboleth, seniority, stood in line to become the new Republican sergeant-at-arms. And Pennsylvania congressmen, ever zealous to garner patronage for their state, hastened to put him in.

In fact they were in such a hurry and so zealous that they hushed up one interesting fact in Mr. Russell's past career—his row with the Aronomink Swimming Pool club at Drexel Hill, whose books, at the time Russell was treasurer, showed a shortage of $6,000. Feeling against Mr. Russell among other club members was high. They even resorted to a court order to make him bring back their books.

Finally, the club got its money, thanks to Russell's ambition to be sergeant-at-arms. For, just ten days before congress opened, Congressman Richard Simpson of Huntingdon, Pa., required Russell to get a letter from the club showing that the money had been paid. Incidentally, he admonished Russell to keep the whole matter quiet.

Where Russell suddenly got the $6,000 to pay the club is his secret. In this connection, it is interesting to note that, a few years before, he had lost his house through inability to pay interest on the mortgage. Get the $6,000 he did, however, and is now comfortably ensconced as sergeant-at-arms of the new house of representatives with a salary of $12,000.

Congressmen's Bank.

Meanwhile, because the sergeant-at-arms office remains closed and in the process of being audited, many congressmen are up against it financially. With heavy campaign expenses and low exchequers they had been looking forward to dropping in on the sergeant-at-arms for an advance on their first pay check. But his window is closed.

This borrowing from the sergeant-at-arms is a time-honored custom and accounts in part for the $125,000 shortage under retired Kenneth Romney.

The genial Democrat operated a bank for members of the house of representatives, in effect, loaning the advance salaries of prosperous congressmen to the less prosperous.

Romney had notes drawn on the "National Bank of Washington," an institution which never existed, and charged his borrowers an over-all interest rate of 14 per cent. It was a bonanza deal and would have netted him more than his $12,000 salary, had not some of the checks bounced.

One $10,000 check signed by John H. Smith, ex-congressman from Florida, was found by probers never to have been presented to a bank. Romney apparently knew it was no good, so never tried to cash it.

Incidentally, the shortages extended back to the Republican days between 1925 and 1930, so sergeant-at-arms trouble apparently is an ancient evil enjoyed by both parties. It will now be interesting to see how new incumbent Russell, trained in the malodorous politics of Delaware county, Pa., handles his important office.

Two Letters Express Different Opinions.

WASHINGTON—Today is open forum on the subject of General George C. Marshall as secretary of state.

It is being conducted by a couple of veterans I used to know. One of them favors Marshall's appointment. The other doesn't.

Oddly, both of their expressions of opinion arrived in the same mail, and certainly each has earned the right to speak his mind.

All through Italy and southern France, I knew Penn Jones as a captain in the 36th (Texas) Infantry division. As I recall it, he later made major. All through Holland, Belgium and Germany, I knew Barney Oldfield as a paratrooper turned public relations officer. At the end, he finally made lieutenant-colonel.

From this correspondent's point of view, what each of them has to say is worth hearing.

From Midlothian, Texas, near Dallas and Fort Worth, where he now edits a weekly newspaper, Penn Jones writes with the editorial "We":

"The new secretary of state is 'a good old boy, but—'

"The trend, mainly, is our objection. We feel that it is a bad precedent to place even one military man in a policy-making position in a democracy. And the army is a poor, poor place to learn democracy. Regular army men and West Pointers have a definite dislike for too much control by the people in government. Marshall is not a West Pointer which is a point in his favor. Many army-trained people are very open and vicious about the faults of a democracy. We can hardly expect them to be otherwise, these men who have spent their lives in an institution that demands obedience to orders without question. They have had no chance to learn the value of men who will ask 'Why?'

"Who is going to help Marshall run the state department? He will call upon his friends to fill the positions of trust, and who are his friends? The colonels and generals he has associated with all his life are his friends. . . .

"General of the Army Marshall may be a well founded democrat: we don't know. But we have been associated with enough of the type that he probably will call in to help him run the already undemocratic state department to say that we do not like the trend. It is risky for a democracy to have to depend upon men who know so little of democracy to run the most important policy making body in our government. . . . "

So says Penn, and there are thousands who would agree with him. But, on the other hand, from Burbank, California, where he now sweats over a hot typewriter for a movie company, Barney Oldfield writes:

"The angle goes back to the Nuernburg trials, where we, as one of the victor nations, sat in judgment over the Germans held by us to be responsible for the waging of aggressive war. At least three of these men were of the professional military class, who, according to the evidence, were on the level of participating with, or carried out the instructions of the heads of the German state. And they were convicted.

"This sets the World Court precedent. . . .

"Therefore, if we grant, as we did at Nuernburg, that a soldier or sailor can be hanged for rendering all aid to the policies of his country, however atrocious or reprehensible they may be, should it not follow that a man could rise from the ranks of the army or navy to one of the highest places in the nation's government, just as it is possible for a professional lawyer, or engineer, or doctor?

"In other words, if General Marshall might have been hanged for the capacity in which he served, if Hitler had won the war, who can deny the right of men who have most to lose and who know what a war can cost a nation and themselves personally to have a say in the framing of the policies of a government which can take them down with it . . . ?"

So says Barney and there are many citizens who would nod in thoughtful agreement.

Both points of view have their flaws, of course. But if your civic, social, school, community or fraternal groups happens to be studying current world trends, Penn and Barney at least present a couple of ideas worth kicking around.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WELL this probably is goodby. . . . The "lifetime" pen I got for Christmas is busted.

* * *

I have looked at the guarantee and it says "if this pen breaks before you die, common decency suggests suicide." My horoscope said I had years to go but who am I to argue with a company that's been in business for 50 years?

* * *

The only ray of hope I have is that further down in the fine print it says "this pen will never leak, blot, run dry or break. . . . But if it does we have the biggest repair department in the country."

* * *

So it may be that they anticipated an exception like mine to the good-for-a-lifetime-clause.

Words That Clearly Convey Meaning.

WASHINGTON—Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman was sitting in his library in St. Louis conversing with a friend on June 3, 1884, when the message came from the Republican convention in Chicago saying leaders could agree on no one but him for the party's presidential nomination.

His son, Tom, describes what happened:

"Without taking his cigar from his mouth, without changing his expression, while I stood there trembling at his side, he wrote the answer:

" 'I will not accept if nominated and will not serve if elected.'

"He turned it over to me to be handed to the messenger and then went on with the conversation which he had been engaged in.

"In that minute I thought my father a great man."

General Sherman's message has always been the model of the way to say "no" clearly and without possibility of any misunderstanding to a question that is the most important in the lives of a few men in every generation.

Gen. George Marshall said it just as emphatically, if in more and slightly different words, in what may become a historic moment, at Union Station here as he got off the train from Chicago. He was not drawn out by newspaper reporters to make this statement. He made it voluntarily in order to get one thing straight before he became secretary of state.

"The popular conception that no matter what a man says he can be drafted as a candidate for some political office would be without any force and effect in regard to me," he said. "I never could be drafted.

"I am being explicit and emphatic in order to terminate once and for all any discussion of my name in connection with political matters. I mean just what I said and not something else."

That's plain enough—and you can be sure that George Marshall meant it 100 per cent. There's one contingency that could make him president, namely what we call Fate. Unless congress changes the law, he would succeed to the presidency if Fate should intervene between now and Jan. 20, 1948, to create a vacancy in the White House.

General Marshall thus put an end, in his characteristic frank and straightforward way, to all sorts of speculation that had been generated in this gossip-shop which is our national capital.

It had been whispered, for example, that he was being made secretary of state to advance him as the 1948 Democratic candidate. It was whispered, too, that he was being elevated to the first cabinet post to submerge another military man who likewise had been nominated frequently—and in both parties—as a possible candidate, General Eisenhower.

Perhaps General Marshall's statement will have an effect that would be healthy in our national politics, which is to discourage consideration of any military figure for the presidency.

As great a man as General Marshall is, there were some seriously and honestly concerned when another military man was chosen for a role in our diplomacy—and the top one—with several posts thus filled already, giving a military complexion to a civilian service.

If democracy is to survive it must raise up its own leaders through the regular democratic process.

General Marshall has performed a public service by reminding us of that. It reveals in him a fine perception of the democratic process, and is an encouraging preface as he takes up his tremendous responsibilities.

"Interloper" Disturbs Railroad Serenity.

WASHINGTON — Just beyond the current of the news, a struggle is going on that has far more meaning for the future than most of the tepid headlines of the moment.

In Wall Street, in Palm Beach, in a senate committee room, the struggle is being waged and the stakes may be equivalent to control over the American economy.

The hero, or the villain, of the piece—it depends on how you look at it—is Robert R. Young, financier and operator. Tough, scrappy, with an almost cynical disregard for the conventional rules of the game, Young has challenged the power of the banking-insurance community in New York.

He began by acquiring control of the almost bankrupt Alleghany Corporation, putting up a relatively small sum of his own money. Out of the Alleghany basket he got three railroads, one of them the highly profitable Chesapeake and Ohio.

Young is bidding for another railroad with Alleghany connections. That is the Missouri Pacific, still under trusteeship but with a handsome chunk of wartime profits in the bank. Young is supporting the stockholders of Missouri Pacific as against the bondholders, which angers the banking-insurance interests holding the bonds. Not satisfied with this, Young is now said to be after control of a glittering, gold-plated railroad—the New York Central.

By nagging advertisements and appeals to the public, he has forced the roads to do things they didn't want to do at all, such as providing through sleeping-car service from one coast to the other. He has introduced all sorts of innovations in his own lines.

His challenge is primarily to the Association of American Railroads, which is the high priesthood of railroading. What regulars in good standing in the association say about Young, the interloper, would [illegible] Reading [illegible] Palm [illegible] lieutenant [illegible] Washington [illegible] and secret.

Washington [illegible] the big [illegible] decision, in the final [illegible] is likely to be political. The interstate commerce commission is holding hearings on a bill which would allow the railroads to get together to fix rates without violating the anti-trust laws. That is the so-called Bulwinkle Bill.

Opponents of the bill say it would set up a monopoly over not just the railroads alone but all transportation. It would give the Association of American Railroads power to discipline bad boys like Robert Young. They would have to conform not merely on rate agreements but on all matters of service and supply.

Those who favor the bill take another view. They say that all agreements would have to be approved by the interstate commerce commission in the public interest. And they add that if railroads entering such an agreement sought to pressure an outsider, then the anti-trust laws would apply.

There is a very real danger in private agreements by railroad controllers. When you water down or eliminate competition, you invite inefficiency.

The step from control by the "private government" of a few executives and bankers to ownership by public government is a short one. It is shorter than those who argue for agreement seem to realize.

Farmer's Diary: "Community Forests."

IN THE years between the two wars, the town forest movement was making slow but steady progress in the United States. From the time the first community forest was established in 1710 in Newington, N. H. until 1940, approximately 3,000 municipally-owned forests had been set up. These included forested areas owned by cities, towns, school districts, and counties.

In certain Old World nations, community-owned forests have played an important role for centuries. Well managed timber lands keep tax levies at low level. There are about three million acres of town forest land in our nation, and the number could be increased with resulting benefits to taxpayers.

A number of large cities have acquired forest lands to protect their systems of reservoirs and watersheds. It is time for widespread growth of forests owned by towns and cities.—Editorial New York Times.

* * *

MT. AIRY FOREST, in Cincinnati, was one of the earliest municipal forests in Ohio. It is owned and operated by the city of Cincinnati . . . First plantings were in 1912. The tract includes 1,360 acres. The first purchase of 168 acres was in 1911, and to date 80 separate parcels of land have been added.

The topography of the area is moderately rough, with flat-topped abrupt hills and deep valleys. The land had been thoroughly depleted by successive years of farming the ridge tops and grazing the woodlands and hillsides.

Mt. Airy has been developed primarily for recreational purposes. It fits naturally into the educational curricula of the botany and geology classes. Although no co-ordinated plan of conservation education has been arranged, high school and university groups make use of Mt. Airy for field trips.

There are 700 acres of hardwood trees and 200 of pines and conifers. Another 200 acres is covered with a mixture of mature hardwood, and there are 120 acres of arboretum, established in 1939. A naturalist employed by the park board conducts hikes over trails in all parks for bird study, tree identification, and plant life research, throughout the year.—News bulletin of Ohio Forestry Association.

Highway Patrol Auxiliary Elects Kahl as Its Captain

Announcement of the election of G. C. Kahl as captain of the State Highway Patrol auxiliary of Richland county composed of 32 members of the American Legion was announced yesterday by an auxiliary official.

The announcement came at the same time it was revealed that Col. George Mingle, superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, had commended 12 members of the Highway Patrol auxiliary in Richland county for "outstanding service" after the train wreck, Dec. 13, on the Pennsylvania railroad near Coulter.

The letter revealed that the Legionnaires, headed by past-Captain Hollis D. Moorehead, were called out of their beds at 3 a. m. and by 4 a. m. had reported to Lt. D. W. Unkle of the Massillon Highway Patrol station.

They were assigned to specific duties, including first aid, and remained on the job, removing dead and injured from the wreckage until relieved by regular members of the Highway Patrol and other persons in authority. They put in a total of 80 hours.

Others Named.

Named in the report together with Moorehead were Cpl. Harvey W. Burghard, Lt. George C. Kahl, Patrolmen Howard Newman, Leo S. Robinson, Cpl. Cecil V. Schill, Patrolmen Floyd F. Maglott, P. C. Davis, Albert F. Conroy, Robert W. Jones, Leroy Wolfgang, and C. L. Van Tilburg.

The Legion auxiliary was organized in January 1942 as an assistance to the Highway Patrol. A 14-week basic training course was given to members by Sgt. C. F. Strayer and Corporals C. W. Cale and J. L. Bishop of the state highway patrol.

Present duties of the auxiliary which has not been deactivated since the war, consist of one night of school and one night of patrol duty each month. The members are subject to call in all emergencies and are so organized that, given telephone facilities, they can assemble in 15 minutes.

Plan Safety Program.

In cooperation with the State American Legion and State Highway patrol the auxiliary is beginning a safety program. The first part of the campaign will be in the form of a "safety quiz" to be held at the McVey Post, American Legion on Feb. 5.

G. C. KAHL

During 1946 the auxiliary put in a total of 2,546 hours of training, patrol and emergency duty.

Other 1947 officers of the auxiliary are P. C. Davis and Leo J. Robinson, lieutenants; Cecil V. Schill, and Howard Hannafius, sergeants; Howard Burghard, Howard Newman, C. L. Van Tilburg and Orval Keirns, corporals. Shelby members of the auxiliary are Howard Hannafius, Ralph J. Hart, W. M. Hassler and Wayne S. Hodges. Bellville members are Robinson and Keirns.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

A SECRET NO MORE

The Green Forest and Green Meadow folk have many secrets, but most of them are kept only as long as they are needed. It is so with feathered folks. In the spring they do all they can to keep their nests secret until their children have gone out into the Great World. They don't care who finds the deserted nests.

However, Old Mother Nature keeps some of these secrets long after the builders no longer have any use for them. But when the leaves fall, leaving the trees and bushes and vines bare, the nests are there for all who pass to see, no longer secrets from any one.

Two of Peter Rabbit's feathered friends are Kitty the Catbird and Mrs. Kitty. He has known them ever since he first tried to run away from his own shadow. He always feels like kicking up his heels when for the first time in the spring he hears Kitty mewing in a thicket. You know it is because he mews so like a Cat that he is called Catbird. And in winter there are no friends Peter misses more than these two. But though they are such long-time friends Peter seldom has been able to find their nest in the spring. He looks and looks, but usually in vain.

"It is our secret and none of your business," declares Kitty.

"But I wouldn't do it or you any harm," protests Peter.

"You won't if you don't know where it is," replies Kitty.

This last spring Peter had failed to find the nest. Now it was winter and Peter had forgotten all about nets. There were other things to think about. The one day he happened to be sitting under some bushes in a corner of Farmer Brown's yard, where of course he had no business to be. That is a failing of Peter's, being where he has no business to be. Those bushes were flowering shrubs that Farmer Brown had planted there. Their branches were many, and so tangled that when they were covered with leaves they formed a sort of leafy roof that couldn't be seen through from beneath, or into from above. Many of Peter's feathered friends had found shelter and safety there in times of danger. Now that the leaves were gone Peter could see all through those bushes. Happening to look up he saw in the thickest part of a bush, and not very far above his head, a nest he had never seen before. He knew it must be a nest, though looking up at it all he could see was a mass of small sticks. Could he have looked down on it he would have seen that those sticks were only the foundations for the real nest of fine roots, grass and fine strips of grapevine bark, very neat and well-made, so well-made that despite lack of care for so long it still was a good nest.

"It is queer I've never seen that nest before. I sat right here often in the summer, but I never suspected there was a nest overhead. I wonder whose nest it was?" thought Peter.

Just then Tommy Tit the Chickadee flew into the tangle of branches overhead. He flew in in a hurry. How he managed to come in so fast through that tangle of crossed and recrossed branches was more than Peter could understand. It was amazing. It really was.

"Why such a hurry?" asked Peter.

Tommy Tit's tiny black eyes snapped. "He didn't get me! Dee, dee, dee, he didn't get me!" he cried.

"Who didn't get you?" asked Peter.

"Butcher," replied Tommy Tit. "He must have just arrived, for I haven't seen him before this winter. I wish he would stay back where he belongs," replied Tommy Tit.

"Butcher? Who is Butcher?" Peter asked wonderingly.

"Butcher the Shrike," replied Tommy Tit. Then, as if flying for life was too commonplace to think about, he seemed to forget all about it and changed the subject. "What are you over here for, instead of at home in the dear Old Briar-patch?" he wanted to know.

Peter paid no attention to this. "Do you know whose nest that is up there?" he asked.

Tommy Tit merely glanced at the nest. "Of course I know. It is one of Kitty the Catbird's," he replied. "Any one should know that just by looking at it."

Wool Suits Are Back—The Swimmin's Fine

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Fashion Editor.

Are you tired of bathing suits which look like pinafores, or kitchen aprons, or diapers, or the costume for the eighth grade play? Are you discouraged with bathing suits of cute cretonne or girlish gingham, which look starched and pretty so long as you don't go near the water? Are you bored with the cold clammy feel of wet cotton or rayon on the beach?

Well, cheer up. Wool bathing suits are back. Moreover, they're back in new and glamorous form, undreamed of in the dim, pre-war days. Formerly, if you remember that far back, wool bathing suits were mostly of the grimly practical variety, made for girl athletes who wanted freedom of action in the water but cared nothing about their looks.

The new wool suits give the freedom of action that's necessary for satisfactory swimming, it's true, but they are styled to dramatize every curve, and make any girl look like a Lorelei on the beach

F. Eugene Ackerman, director of the American Wool Council, says American bathing beauties may now relax. Their wartime troubles are over. Thanks to the faithful sheep, they may now be both decorative and active with the crawl stroke. The nation's wool supply is back to normal, and more, and there should be plenty of wool bathing suits from now on.

FUNCTIONAL GLAMOR . . . Tina Leser's shirred wool jersey swim suit . . . And lanolin lotion for the tan.

BUILT FOR ACTION . . . Carolyn Schnurer's cinnamon wool jers[illegible] minimum" postwar bathing suit.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, January 25.

A depressed state of mind, stressed by an erratic or wayward trend of the emotional behavior, may bring to this day a strange and inexplicable slant to the home, affectional, professional as well as business life. It is probable the romantic or domestic relations are of critical significance, with estrangements, strife or other untoward events spelling calamity and grief. A spirit of composure and rationality should be maintained rigidly.

Those whose birthday it is may run into a year of devastating disturbance and disruption, largely due to a depressed and confused state of mind and health, exaggerated by curious, erratic and turbulent emotions and impulses. Inexplicable results, with estrangements, separations, or other strange experiences, may affect radically home and romantic life as well as business associations. A sound and deep analysis of underlying causes may avert serious, disruptive and regrettable conduct, radical and enduring.

A child born on this day should be given early and keen analysis and direction of its mentality and emotions, lest certain depressed or curious impulses menace its home and social life

GIRL ROBBER GETS 10 YEARS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (U.P.)— Attractive Evelyn Cornish Globaker, 26-year-old former Oklahoma co-ed who abandoned an ex-marine husband in Cleveland, O., for an adventure through the southland, was brought to the Alabama State prison at Wetumpka near here today to serve a ten-year robbery sentence.

Ms. Globaker was convicted by an all male jury of armed robbery of a downtown Mobile, Ala., restaurant last Oct. 30. The judge was asked to show mercy in sentencing her. She got the minimum sentence. The maximum sentence for armed robbery in Alabama is death in the electric chair.

She admitted getting $700 which she spent for clothes and fun in New Orleans. While in Atlanta, Ga., authorities made an intense search for her after she left a suicide note in a tourist home. She surrendered voluntarily to Dallas, Tex., police.

In the suicide note she said that she was not good enough for her husband whom she married after a nine-day courtship following a meeting in a Cleveland bar.

Of the sentence, she said:

"I'm lucky. Think what could have happened to me if I hadn't given myself up."

Pilot Killed In Air Crash

SEATTLE—(U.P.)—The pilot was killed and two crewmen parachuted to safety when an Army C-47 transport ran out of gas and crashed in a thickly-wooded district approximately 12 miles north of here last night

The pilot's body was found in the wreckage of the craft near a watertower atop a hill.

The plane apparently had plummeted to earth shortly after the pilot ordered the two crewmen to bail out. The victim, whose name was not divulged, apparently had ridden the plane to the ground in order to avoid its crashing into nearby houses

Lt. M. E. Smith, co-pilot, and Lt. H B. Kinnson, navigator, were taken to the Sandpoint Naval hospital for observation. Both were badly shaken up but otherwise uninjured, naval officers said

RECENT BREAK IN FARM PRICE CALLED SOUND

Economists Believe Decline Reflects Adjustment.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Does the recent break in prices of farm products signal the start of the widely-predicted business recession?

The general level of farm prices declined nearly six per cent in late November and early December, according to agriculture department statistics. Between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15, moreover, the department's index number of average prices received by farmers dropped from 2.73 to 2.63.

In addition, quotations on futures are in many cases far below the current prices, indicating that traders expect prices to continue their downward trend.

* * *

But Economists Differ.

Some economists have predicted that a consumer reaction against high prices would cause a break in the present sellers' market and start a chain of events which would develop into a downward business spiral.

When the demand dropped, they reasoned, producers and distributors would retrench and fire a lot of employes. As unemployment grew, consumer demand would continue to diminish, sellers would have to retrench still further, and the spiral would be well started.

But economists at the agriculture department see no such significance in the drop in farm prices. They regard it rather as a healthy development, a needed adjustment. Prices have been unjustifiably high, they believe, and they are settling to a more realistic level.

Compared With Stocks.

It is similar to the interpretation given my many business analysts of the stock market decline last fall. In their view, business conditions are sounder than they were last summer as a result of the price adjustments in the stock list.

Farm prices are still relatively high, the economists point out, and producers are getting more than a fair return for their goods. Average prices to farmers are still 24 per cent above the parity level, which is the price the government estimates the farmer should get if the amount is to be fair both to consumer and producer.

The present level of farm prices, moreover, is 84 per cent higher than when the U. S. entered the war, and 29 per cent above the level on V-J day.

PENICILLIN COMES TO THE BARN—When "Inka" dropped from 2,000 pounds to 1,600, three veterinarians were called in to treat the prize bull, valued at $20,000 by its owner, W. T. Rawleigh, of Freeport, Ill. Dr. M. E. Moyer gives the animal an injection of penicillin after its condition was diagnosed as a liver ailment. (International Soundphoto)

Bucyrus City Police Stressed Traffic Campaign Last Year

BUCYRUS—With police activity in Bucyrus last year centered on traffic violations, 300 arrests in this category were made by the police department, the anual report of Police Chief Arthur Stuckert disclosed today.

It also showed that $3,245 was collected from violators of traffic regulations during the year. A total of 212 motorists were fined for speeding or failure to stop at traffic signs.

Driving while under the influence of alcohol brought fines to 41 motorists, while reckless drivers apprehended totaled 38.

The report showed that 459 automobiles were involved in accidents during the year, with 240 mishaps investigated by the department. Two persons were killed and 57 injured in traffic accidents.

A total of 31 cars were reported stolen during the year, but all but one, which was junked by the thief, were recovered. Of 155 bicycles stolen during 1946, 153 were recovered.

With three-quarters of the 411 arrests made during the year for traffic violations, 90 of the remaining arrests were for intoxication, Stuckert said.

BUCYRUS TO BUY AUTO

BUCYRUS — Safety Director John Carroll was today given authorization to sell two of the city's police cruisers, which Police Chief Arthur Stuckert described as "worn-out." Legislation has also been approved by city council for the purchase of a new cruiser as soon as the two old cars are disposed of.

Rev. Jones Heads Bucyrus Pastors' Group This Year

BUCYRUS—Rev. J. Paul Jones, pastor of the Grace Evangelical United Brethren church, had been elected president of the Bucyrus Ministerial association.

He was named at the association's first meeting of the year, held this week in Bucyrus. Officers were chosen, standing committees appointed and the year's program planned.

Other officers elected were Rev. D. L. Custis, vice president, and Rev. James C. Hough, secretary-treasurer.

Rev. H. L. Troutner was named chairman of the committee on evangelism; Rev. C. D. Loehr, Christian social action; Rev. Clayton Strawser, rural church work, and Rev J. P. Cordero, Christian education.

COUNCIL APPROVES BIBLE SCHOOL PLAN

ASHLAND—Plans for the 1947 Daily Vacation Bible school at the close of the regular school term have been completed by the Ashland City Council of Religious Education.

The council will seek the services of Miss Virginia Parrish, supervisor of religious education in city schools, for organizing and supervising the vacation [illegible]

The council commended parents of the city for their fine cooperation in the program of [illegible] cation now conducted in city schools.

ASHLAND CHILD TRAPPED IN ICE

ASHLAND—Six-year-old Patty Parcenue was recovering at her home here today from exposure suffered Wednesday afternoon when according to the child, an unidentified boy threw her into a pond and left her there, caught in the broken ice and mud.

The little first-grade pupil was found by John Boreman four hours after the incident, while police scoured the city at the behest of the child's frantic mother.

Patty told police that the older boy, whom she could not name, had thrown her into the icy pond and that she broke through the ice and was caught in the mud of the shallow water, unable to extricate her feet.

She was taken to Samaritan hospital for first aid treatment before being taken to the home of her mother, Mrs. June Parcenue, 149 East Fourth street.

LEGION-AUXILIARY PLANS TEA FEB. 3

CRESTLINE — Plans for a Washington tea at the next meeting of the Legion auxiliary Feb. 3 at 7.30 p. m were made at a meeting this week. It will be a combined business and social affair with the Junior auxiliary as guests. Mrs. A. C. Kindinger will be committee chairman.

Mrs. M. V. Snyder, president, and Miss Rita Meyers were elected delegates to the Mid-Winter conference of the auxiliary at Neil House in Columbus, March 1. Alternates are Mrs. Thomas McCreary and Mrs. E. T. Remy.

Mrs. Frank Strauch, rehabilitation chairman, reported $189.10 used by that department for the month of December and Mrs. E. G. Smith, child welfare chairman reported $102 used for December expenses. She also reported on the Christmas party for the children of the Legion and auxiliary members for which 90 children were present.

COMPILED FROM N-J STATE CORRESPONDENTS' REPORTS

WILLARD

Mrs. J. E. Wise and Mrs. R. P. Sharick were chosen as delegates to the Continental Congress at a meeting this week of the Willard chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution.

Mrs. E. R. Hartzel and Mrs. Harold Ketchum were named alternates to the congress, which will be held in Washington, D. C., beginning May 19.

Mrs. Wise and Mrs. George Rager were named delegates, with Mrs. C. H. Strahm and Mrs. Robert V. Smith as alternates, to the state conference in Columbus in March.

During the business meeting, donations were voted to two D. A. R. projects. The Bell Tower project at Valley Forge, Pa., received $25, and the Bacone Indian school in Oklahoma was donated $2.

Topics presented on the program were "Education and the Training of Character," by Miss Elma Hills, and "The Modern Woman's Place in the Home," by Mrs. E. D. Kackley. Mrs. Rager, Mrs. Earl S. Frye, Mrs. John Leitz and Mrs. Ketchum were in charge of entertainment and refreshments. Mrs. Walter Drury was accepted as a new member.

Mrs. Wise, regent, announced that the next meeting will be held Feb. 21. A musical program under the direction of Miss Agnes Moore is scheduled.

The 45th anniversary of the Unity club was observed last Thursday when the club met at the home of Mrs. R. P. Sharick. "1946 in Review" was the theme of the program. Mrs. H. A. Neff spoke on "Religion;" Mrs. C. H. Garing on "News Stories;" Mrs. A. C. Byrer, "Motion Pictures;" Mrs. W. A. Williams, "Locals," and Mrs. Sharick, "Books."

Mrs. Thomas Smith was hostess Monday to members of the Tally-ho club. Guests included Mrs. Robert Hoffman, of Plymouth, Mrs. O. C. Beck and Mrs. Harrison Wolfe, both of Willard. Mrs. Robert Bachrach, of Plymouth, will be the next hostess.

Ohio Labor Set to Defend Closed Shop

FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

Back to the Indians

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Do not, gentle reader, be discouraged, like Sen. C. Douglass Buck. This dispatch gets livelier as you go along!

"Here we have been investigating the Indian bureau for two whole days," the morose gentleman from Delaware began. "Accomplished nothing. Discovered no possible way to cut its $40,000,000 appropriation."

The cellophane on the unlit cigar clamped in the mouth of Sen. William Langer of N. D., rattled. He is chairman of the civil service commission, he wants to fire as many federal workers as possible, and he said he begged to differ.

"We have got information which will allow us to dump this Indian bureau entirely," he shouted. "And save the taxpayers $40,000,000 a year."

The pink face of William Zimmerman, jr., commissioner of Indian affairs, grew pinker still. In a minute it was to turn scarlet only he didn't know it. Sen. Langer said if his fellow lawmakers needed any further proof of the uselessness of the Indian bureau, he suggested they listen to a Mr. Crawford, who had rushed here from Oregon.

A solid-looking citizen in rimless eyeglasses and a handsomely tailored suit identified himself as Wade Crawford, a Klamath Indian. His voice was as cultured as his words were bitter. He said in effect that if the Indian bureau managed the lives of the Klamath Indians another 10 years, they'd be bankrupt for generations to come.

"The Indian bureau seems to picture us wearing moccasins and fanciful headdresses," he testified. "The Indian today is a man like myself. This generation of Indians has been to school; it can take care of itself."

* * *

HE WENT ON to say that the Klamath reservation contains seven times as many white men as Indians. The Indians send their children to public schools. They earn their own livings.

"The Indian bureau does nothing for us," he said, still not raising his voice. "Yet upon our reservation there are 100 white men employed by the Indian service. They ride in 80 cars and trucks and in two airplanes.

"The superintendent plays around in the planes. When he smashes one, he rides in the other. He claims he is using them for law and order, though how he is able to see the difference from the air between a white man and an Indian on the ground I do not know."

He charged Zimmerman personally and in so many words with keeping the Indians in bondage.

"He is the dictator," Crawford added. "Gentlemen, the Indian bureau will last another 10 years if you listen to fellows like him."

Crawford reached into his brief case then and said, by the way, he had a little pamphlet he wanted to hand to each senator. He did so.

"Yes," cried Sen. Buck, "but this is a formal report by the U. S. senate committee on Indian affairs in 1943."

It certainly is, Crawford said. He pointed out where it recommended that the Indian bureau be chopped to a fraction of its size and that most Indians be given immediately the rights of American citizens.

"Of course," Crawford said, "this report was made to congress four years ago. I do not know what happened to its recommendations."

"Including," growled Sen. Langer, "its final recommendation, saying the Indian bureau should not get $40,000,000 but at most, $5,000,000."

"H-m-m-m," said Sen. Buck. Indian commissioner Zimmerman laughed. Sounded nervous.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Left-Handed Praise

CHICAGO—Some people who read these dispatches have said I am too emotional in my adulation of great Americans among that noble crew who taught us that greed was bad for the soul of us, who said money was only money anyway, and that the man who wasn't generous wasn't a good man, but an economic royalist. I can't help it, though. When I admire a fellow I say so and when I learn of some secret generosity I tell about it, as when I learned recently that Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a mood of greatness, permitted B. M. Baruch and some other rich men of the New Deal set to pay the expenses of his loyal secretary of many years, the late Missy Le Hand, during her long fatal illness. That was big of him. He could have paid these costs himself, rich as he was. But he wouldn't deprive Baruch et al of the pleasure. That is my kind of hero, the kind who, in his will, provided that his executors, at their discretion, might shoot the works out of his estate of almost $2,000,000 and provide for Missy's medical care and maintenance up to the extent of $1,000 a year, or roughly $19 a week for a bedridden companion, confidante and friend. Missy died first, so there was no call on his goodness of heart, on her behalf.

* * *

ICKES is another of my heroes—old honest Harold, the curmudgeon, or miser, as he calls himself. He is joking, of course. Big hearted Harold is no miser. He is just methodical and accurate.

He is a —

Well, read on and then you decide for yourself what he is:

The late Anna Wilmarth Ickes, the old curmudgeon's first wife, a very rich woman, was killed in an automobile accident in New Mexico in 1935. He was the executor and was described as the sole beneficiary of her large estate.

Naturally, in the administration and settlement of a rich decedent's affairs, the court requires detailed accounts.

The accounts of this estate are on file in the probate department of the clerk's office of Cook county, Ill.

Among the items listed in the papers is item No. 16 under "disbursements." It says: "Harold L. Ickes, expenses, Washington to Chicago, and return, $109.2." On a small typewritten sheet without heading, it says, "Received from estate of Anna W. Ickes, deceased, railroad expenses, Washington to Chicago and return, re funeral of decedent, $109.4" This is signed in ink, "Harold L. Ickes."

Among other entries re receipts signed in ink, "Harold L. Ickes," executor, for $15.84 for one trip from Washington to Chicago and return, on estate matters, and for two trips same route, same business, $20.30.

* * *

THEN THERE is one for $67.98 from a flower shop, charged to the estate, and another document on a Western Union form, a bill for a total of $3.45, the first item of which is $1.68 for a message from Washington, D. C., where Ickes was, to Yellowstone Park, where her son, Robert, was, with a penciled notation alongside reading, "Robert Ickes, advising of mother's death."

And there are other bills for telephone calls and an item of $34 for stamps.

That is why I like those people. They were big and they tried to teach us how to be big by tearing up money by the billion and ridiculing the mean-hearted and greedy, well-fed clubmen and tories who put money above all considerations, even decency.

That is why I go all-out for my idols.

That is why Harold Ickes is my man.

Scrupulous he is, too. You may be sure he didn't overcharge. You may be sure that his accounts were right to the penny. That wouldn't be my man's way. When he says flowers for his wife's funeral cost $67.98 and that it cost $1.68 to notify the boy that his mother had been killed, the correct amount was not a penny more nor less.

Yet some people say I slop over. They say "take it easy." They say, "hero-worship lets you down."

I say to heck with that! I am an emotional fellow and when I find an Ickes, and I may never find another in this life, I want to give him his due, out loud.

"'Course Ah does,' she said. 'Evvy night.'

"'But,' he persisted, 'do you think that God hears your prayers as quickly as he does those of white children?'

"'Sho,' said Jenny. 'Ah prays into God's ears, not his eyes!'"

CIVIC MUSIC ORGANIZATION ELECTS SMITH

Campaign For Members to Get Under Way About Feb. 24.

Orlo L. Smith was elected president of the Mansfield Civic Music association last night at the annual meeting in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room. He succeeds Paul F. Cropper.

Also elected were officers and 22 persons to serve on the executive board of the association. Officers chosen were Ruhland Isaly, re-elected first vice president; Keith Miller, re-elected second vice pesident; William Layton, third vice president; E. D. Gibson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Stanley Richardson, recording secretary; Dean Eckert, treasurer, and Miss Myrtle Booth, assistant treasurer.

New members of the executive board are Robert J. Alander, Dr. H. F. Plaut, Roscoe Gage and Miss Louise Krause. Re-elected to the board were Robert B. Black, Paul Cropper, Mrs. Paul Cropper, Mrs. E. D. Gibson, Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, Atty. C. H. Henkel, Mrs. William Layton, Miss Florence MacDonald, Mrs. George Hall, Mrs Clarence Platt, William C. Mead, W. L. Miller, John G. Routzon, Miss Hester Robinson, Robert Richards, Mrs. Orlo L. Smith. Mrs. G. J. Searle and Rev. Samuel U. J. Peard.

To this list will be added majors who will conduct the membership campaign.

Drive Opens Feb. 24.

The annual membership drive for the association will open Feb. 24 with Mrs. John A. Austin as campaign chairman. Mrs. Austin was appointed last night by Smith.

Following the custom of giving old members first chance for renewal of their memberships, the association will mail membership forms to present members about Feb. 8. However, applicants for new memberships may send in their applications and checks for membership.

Memberships will be issued in the order in which the applications are received after the old members have had a chance to renew.

Mrs. Mercedes Walker, representative from the National Civic Music association, who attended the meeting last night, commented that the city had been "very fortunate" in choosing artists to fit the limited budget. Many of the musicians who have appeared here in the past are now outstanding personalities of the concert and opera stage.

TARVIN JOINS ARMY OFFICE

Several changes in personnel at the Mansfield army recruiting station were announced today by M/Sgt. Daniel DeSalvo, station commander.

Sgt. Earl Tarvin, of Mansfield, has joined the station complement as a recruiter. Sgts. Roland Hilborn and Jacob E. Held have been transferred out.

Tarvin came to the Mansfield station as the result of a recent army directive authorizing enlistment of local veterans as recruiters in their home area. He has been a resident of Mansfield since 1927. He worked at Westinghouse Electric before his service during the war with the 733AAA Bn. in the South Pacific. He is single, and lives at 191 Marlow road.

Sgt. Hilborn has been transferred to the Armed Forces Induction station, Cleveland. Sgt. Held went to the Air Corps at Wright Field, Dayton.

OPA Sees Chance For More Sugar

The world supply of sugar may increase sufficiently to permit raising the annual allotment for each person from 25 to 35 pounds annually, the Office of Price Administration announced today in Cleveland.

At the same time, the OPA cautioned against discontinuance of sugar control. It contended that lifting of controls would raise the price two to three times and decrease the amount of sugar on grocers' shelves as industrial users outbid housewives.

Sheets, 81, Retires as President of Firm He Founded 51 Years Ago

By JOHN GRAY
(N-J State Correspondent)

SHELBY — Henry H. Sheets, who at 39 refused to accept defeat when the concern he founded failed, today at 81 announced his retirement as president of the Shelby Salesbook company.

The prominent Shelby resident, whose sharp wit and gentlemanly bearing are known throughout the area, will retire Jan. 31, when the company's annual meeting will be held and his successor chosen.

Sheets founded the Salesbook company more than half a century ago. He represents what some say is a fast-vanishing American specie—the successful business man who rose from humble origins and, despite many setbacks, rose to the top of his profession.

* * *

"FIFTY-ONE YEARS ago I came to Shelby to buy the Shelby Republican," he said. "It was a miserable paper, miserably edited and printed. In fact, its misery was so great that I bought it for $1,500, paying $50 down and the balance at the rate of $12.50 a month.

"I had had nine years of newspaper experience in Pittsburgh, Ashland and Marion, working in the latter city for the late President Warren G. Harding. Shelby was growing, presenting what seemed to be an opportunity for a newspaper."

* * *

SHEETS'S FIRST move was to change the paper from twice-a-week to a weekly.

"A Methodist preacher came into the office to thank me for the change because he only bothered to read it once a week. A farmer's wife liked the new paper so much better than the old because it made better shelf paper.

"In 1896," he recalled, "I made the first salesbook in Shelby for a local grocer, who pronounced it the worst job he had ever seen. Worse yet, he refused to pay for it."

* * *

DESPITE THIS, Sheets pursued the idea of making short account books for grocers and butchers. His capital was $900.

"In that era, overhead was much lower," he recalls. "The best man I had was Walter Critchfield, formerly of Ashland, who is now general manager of the Salesbook company. I was paying him $12 a week for a 10-hour day with Saturday afternoons off. Girls were paid $5 a week, while the average printer and pressman drew $9."

In 1898, Sheets's enterprise took a new lease on life and wound up in "involuntary partnership" with the sheriff. A new salesbook was developed, and a stock company, capitalized at $9,000, organized.

"From this time on," Sheets said, "it was a fight to keep ahead of the sheriff."

* * *

THE FOLLOWING YEAR the plant was put out of business for six months by a fire. Floods in each of the next year covered the plant with more than six feet of water. Equipment was ruined, credit was gone and bank loans were called with no funds in sight.

Sheets visited Warren G. Harding in Marion.

"Henry," Harding asked, "how much money did you have when you went to Shelby?"

"Nine hundred dollars."

"Oh, well," replied Harding, "in that case you won't lose much."

* * *

BUT HARDING was wrong. Sheets lost everything. The only recourse was reorganization, and he emerged as salesman for the company he had formerly headed. He was then 39, an age which he remembers didn't offer too much encouragement for a comeback.

Yet this turn of events finally put both the company and Henry Sheets on the path of ultimate success. For a number of years, he was the entire sales force.

The change gave Sheets a chance to see the need for better sales recording methods. Ideas thus gained led to the development of a new triplicating book, the "Shelbytrip."

"Acceptance of the 'Shelbytrip' by the retail trade was almost instantaneous," he said. "I traveled the United States from Boston to Denver, making installations in many of the largest department stores in the nation.

* * *

"OUR COMPANY prospered, with addition after addition being added to the plant. In the early '20's, standard manifold books were placed on the market."

Sheets became a director of the company upon its foundings, successively vice president in 1926 and first vice president in 1938. After the death of Walter W. Van Horn in 1945 he was elected president.

Although almost 82 years old, Sheets continues to lead an active outdoor life. He will continue to serve on the board of directors of the company.

HENRY H. SHEETS . . . won fight against odds

Park Collects Dimes to Aid Fight on Polio

One Mansfield theater, the Park, is "Marching on with the March of Dimes," R. H. Shaffer, manager of the independent theater said today. He announced collections for the annual campaign to raise funds for the fight on infantile paralysis were taken up at the Park on Thursday and would be taken until Jan. 30 when the drive ends.

Shaffer said the first day's collection seemed to be good.

Meanwhile, Harold McClelland, local drive chairman, said that 3,000 more letters, making a total of about 9,000, had gone out urging contributions to the "important cause."

Contributions should be sent or brought to the Richland Chapter, Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Marshall C. Moore, secretary, 703 Richland Trust building.

DeMolay Lodge Rates 'Excellent'

Baku chapter, Order of DeMolay, received a grade of "excellent" last night following an inspection of lodge books and ritual proceedings, Howard Schuck, chapter adviser, reported.

The chapter will sponsor a sale of home made cakes tomorrow at the Third street market, Schuck said. Proceeds will go to finance a dance in February.

28 Vets Ask County to Let Them Live In 20 Trailers

Applications from Richland county war veterans who want to live in the 20 metal house trailers purchased by the commissioners for the emergency housing project totaled 28 this morning.

Veterans continued to submit applications. They hoped maybe some of the first 20 applicants, promised "first-come, first-served" selection, might cancel their requests.

Meanwhile, the commissioners still are considering the best methods of locating the shiny, new 27-foot two-room trailers.

Seek Lower Cost Basis.

In order to avoid higher overhead costs and delays in establishing a central site for all of the trailers, the commissioners are hoping that each veteran can supply his own site, including utility services such as water, sanitation and electric facilities.

If that can be done, the rental fees for each family can be lower than if the county establishes a central location and furnishes the utility services, C. L. Shoup, chairman of the commissioners, pointed out.

If the veteran can supply his own site he must furnish the commissioners with a lease on the property in order to place the unit in the name of the county. The county would lease the sites for $1 per year until the end of 1951, project expiration date as authorized by state law.

$15 Maximum Likely.

Amount of rental fees for the trailers will depend upon the solution of the site problem but commissioners are considering a maximum charge of $15 per month. Shoup said that Knox county charges rent of $12 per month.

Four family units (prefabricated homes) have already been erected in Shiloh and rental charges there will be $20 per month, Shoup said. Completion of the Shiloh units has been delayed by shortages of plumbing fixtures.

Illness Fatal To Mrs. Brewer

Mrs. Alphretta Clark Brewer, 80, widow of Fred Brewer and mother of Mrs. O. H. Schettler, 69 Brinkerhoff avenue, died at the Mansfield Sanitarium-Hospital last night following an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Brewer was born near Grove City, May 1, 1866, and came to Mansfield in 1938. She was a member of the First Congregational church.

Surviving, besides her daughter, are two sons, Charles of Springfield and Clarence of Detroit; one sister, Mrs. H. A. Rhodes, and one brother, Russell Clark, both of Columbus; eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The body is at the Finefrock funeral home where friends may call until 10 a. m. Saturday. It will then be taken to Columbus where services will be held in the Rutherford funeral home, North High street, at 3 p. m. Burial will be in the Union cemetery.

Up and Down The Street

CALL FROM MANILA—

Mrs. John R. George, Millsboro road, had one of the thrills of her life the other night when the long-distance operator from San Francisco called to say she had an overseas call for her. Within a few minutes, Mrs. George was talking to her daughter, Mrs. John R. Kaiser in Manila. "The first thing she said was 'Hi Mom'," Mrs. George relates. "And her voice was as clear as if she were right here in Mansfield."

With her husband, Mrs. Kaiser flew to Manila last May, where Kaiser represents the Wilson Motor Sales, Inc., of New York City. Although the temperature was 100 degrees, Mrs. Kaiser told her mother, they had had roast turkey and all the trimmings for Christmas. Mrs. Kaiser is the former Sue George.

EYES TURN SKYWARD—

There may be many stiff necks in Mansfield tomorrow, result of a visit to the city yetesrday of a Goodyear blimp. Eyes turned skyward as the blimp passed slowly through the murky sky over the down-town area about 2 p. m. As the blimp flew about 500 or 600 feet overhead, persons were heard to comment that "It must be a lot of fun. At least the fellows up there don't have to crane their necks to see what's going on."

Fireman Wilson McLean was still being "ribbed" by his "smoke-eating" colleagues today at Central fire station. It concerns the speed with which McLean answered an alarm Wednesday. The "alarm" came in around 10 a. m. and was directed specifically to McLean by his wife. It seems that a chimney at the McLean home, 250 Sheridan avenue, was burning out. Mrs. McLean wanted fast action. She got it—with McLean leading the way! McLean is still being "accused" of purposely "arranging" the fire so he could get home for awhile.

Air Force Vets Meet Tonight

First social meeting of the Mansfield squadron, Air Force Association will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in Memorial hall. James Wallace, squadron president, said about 60 air force veterans and guests are expected. Alan Tappan, association wing commander, will be present.

The association is open to former air force flying and ground personnel as well as ex-servicemen and women who were assigned or attached to army air force units. Membership is open to both ex-officers and enlisted men.

HOSPITAL BOARD

The annual meeting of the Mansfield Hospital association will be held at 7:30 p. m. today in the library at General hospital. Reports of hospital administration during the past year will be made and officers elected. Edward Loughridge, board president, will preside.

LEADERS BACK 'WAIT AND SEE' UNION POLICY

CIO, AFL Save Ammunition For Future Attacks on 'Tough' Legislation.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Organized labor primed its guns but withheld its fire today against legislation proposing to outlaw closed shops, curb strikes and fix union responsibility in Ohio.

Both CIO and AFL spokesmen said they wanted to "wait and see" how the new state administration's labor policy shaped up before using their ammunition on "tough" proposals in the general assembly.

They referred to a bill sponsored by Rep. William R. Van Aken, Cleveland attorney who said it was aimed at unjust labor practices, and two others by Rep. Charles H. Veach, Putnam county farmer-lawyer. Both men are Republicans.

Labor, state administration and Chamber of Commerce spokesmen expressed surprise on discovering the bills in the flood which poured into the house of representatives during the first week it received new measures.

Sources close to Gov. Thomas J. Herbert said he was not consulted by sponsors of the legislation and that he was awaiting results of a cabinet member check on such laws in other states before offering any suggestions.

Herbert in his recent message to the legislature asked consideration of laws in other states providing dispute cooling off periods, mediation and arbitration but said "strikes against the government should be prohibited by statute."

* * *

Van Aken Claims Backing.

Van Aken said Cleveland organizations, which he did not identify, were behind his bill. He described it as "nothing drastic" and asserted it would protect the right of individuals to work, and prevent unions from expelling members without "good cause."

Van Aken's bill would:

Require unions to make annual reports to the states on their income, expenditures and membership.

Allow strikes only through majority approval of members by secret ballot.

Allow only two pickets at each entrance of struck plants.

Hold unions and their officers liable for damages in civil actions arising from picketing.

Permit court suit against unions with judgment enforceable against their property.

Require four-fifths affirmative vote of union members for a closed shop.

Prohibit unions from soliciting or contributing to political campaigns.

Prevent aliens or felons from holding union office.

Outlaw secondary boycotts.

Van Aken said the state department of industrial relations already had the right to set up arbitration machinery for labor disputes, so it was omitted from the bill.

He and "another Cleveland attorney," Van Aken said, drew upon Texas and Wisconsin labor relations acts and a bill previously offered in Ohio in framing the new proposal.

COURT UPHOLDS RENT DECISION

The Fifth district court of appeals today had affirmed a decision of Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler in dismissing a home-rental over-charge suit against Clarence Connor.

Trent Gregory had sought a judgment of $888 against Connor as treble damages for the alleged overcharge of rent, court costs and attorney fees on the grounds that Connor violated the rental ceilings provided in the federal emergency price control act of 1942.

But since his petition did not state that the house in question, on State Route 13 four miles north of Mansfield, was located in an area designated by the price administrator as a defense area, or that such an area was so designated and its rents thereby frozen, "no cause of action is stated," the appeals court's decision said.

Gregory claimed he paid $296 too much in rents from March 1, 1943 to April 1, 1946. His attorneys were H. H. Rust and Joseph H. Ellison. Atty. Van C. Cook represented Connor.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO TWO OFFICES

Two coal company offices in Mansfield were broken into last night and the safes tampered with, but no loss was reported, police said today.

J. F. Bemiller of the East Side Coal company said he found the office ransacked when he entered the building this morning. Pins on the safe had been knocked off, but nothing was missing, he said.

The Casey Coal company office also was entered during the night, and the dial on the safe moved, but nothing was stolen, Emmett Casey, manager, reported.
